Full Sick Bay Sends Warship Home

A lightning attack of gastro-enteritis, a fast-spreading intestinal disease, struck down 35 of some 200 seamen on board the destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa yesterday. The outbreak forced Ottawa to withdraw from joint Canadian-U.S. manoeuvres and limp home to Esquimalt with her sick bay full.

Medical officers dashed to the ship the moment it reached port and seven of the sick sailors were rushed to hospital ashore.

They declined to say how serious their condition was.

Seamen were permitted to call wives and families ashore to tell them the ship had been quarantined and personnel were being held on board until this morning.

But a naval information officer said the ship was "not exactly in quarantine."

"We're just holding the crew on board—that's all," he said.

Attempts to reach the Ottawa were discouraged by HMCS Naden telephone operators who said they had received instructions to stop any incoming calls except "those of an extremely urgent nature."

A medical officer contacted by telephone in the Ottawa's sick bay said absolutely no information would be released from the ship without prior sanction by navy public relations.

Even relatives of the quarantined seamen were vague on details. Calls from ship to shore offered no explanation of the delay in releasing the men.

Local health authorities were not called in. Greater

Victoria medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said he had heard nothing.

Among Esquimalt-based ships participating in the exercise are the destroyer escorts Assiniboine, Skeena, Fraser and Margaree; frigates Sussexville, Ste. Therese, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, Stettler, Antigonish and Jonquiere; the fleet maintenance vessel Cape Breton and the submarine Grille.

Cape Breton is expected to tie up at Dockyard this morning.

Tombstones Scattered By Vandals

KELOWNA (CP) — Twenty tombstones, all from the graves of Japanese, have been ripped up and scattered over a part of the cemetery here. The desecration was discovered Wednesday by Jess Woud, cemetery caretaker, who said beer cases and a tube of lipstick lay on the ground nearby.

Kennedy Considers U.S. Action in Asia

'Warning Force' Studied To Block Red Drives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday held an unannounced secrecy-shrouded conference with his top military and diplomatic aides on the increasing Communist threat to Southeast Asia.

He announced he is sending Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Viet Nam to discuss way of protecting it from Communist aggression and is calling former Korean War commander Gen. James Van Fleet out of retirement to advise the Pentagon on anti-Communist guerrilla tactics in Asia.

The United States and its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization have been studying the possibility of sending a "warning force" to block Red drives in the area. The state department said no decision had been reached.

Meeting with the president to discuss the situation in Laos and Red guerrilla attacks on South Viet Nam were Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The White House meeting came as Tokyo dispatches quoted Communist China's army chief of staff, Gen. Luo Jui-ching, as saying that sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam or Laos would "seriously endanger peace" in Asia.

REPORTS DENIED

For the past few days the state department has denied reports that the administration was considering sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam. Department press chief Lincoln White said yesterday that this was not under consideration now "in any active sense."

But White added: "We always have to look for contingencies that might arise."

ADVANTAGE TAKEN

The North Vietnamese Communists have taken advantage of the unopposed ceasefire in Laos — and perhaps the Berlin crisis — to build up forces in southern Laos. These forces are striking into South Viet Nam and threaten Thailand to the west.

CONTINGENCY PLAN

The United States and its allies have long had a contingency plan to base a relatively small force in northern Thailand as a sign of their determination to fight if necessary in the area.

Another Russian Defects

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A 35-year-old Russian citizen last night defected from the Soviet tourist liner Kallin, Stockholm police reported.

The unidentified man asked for political asylum in Sweden. The defector, a passenger aboard the liner, walked off the ship and managed to find the police station here.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The wrath of Afro-Asian countries fell on South Africa Wednesday after Foreign Minister Eric Louw defended the racial policies of his country and criticized its critics.

JAJA WACHUKU
... 'crudity'

In an unprecedented action, the 16th United Nations General Assembly voted 67 to one with 20 abstentions in support of a Liberia-proposed motion of censure terming Louw's speech "offensive and erroneous."

Ambassador Seyni Lom of Senegal announced at the height of the emotion-charged debate that his country would move today for expulsion of South Africa from the UN.

This came amid other predictions that the censure motion would be a prelude to an expulsion attempt and there also was some speculation that South Africa—which left the Commonwealth earlier this year—might itself withdraw from the UN.

LOVE OBJECTION

South Africa alone voted against the censure motion. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, some Latin American countries, Italy and Portugal were among the abstainers.

Britain, the United States and France were among nine countries announcing that, although present, they would not participate in the vote. Three countries were absent from the 100-nation body.

Louw protested in debate that his policy speech had merely been an exposition of South Africa's views and was not intended to insult anyone.

'FOREWARNED' — He charged that Wednesday's move was the result of a pre-arranged campaign by African nations "about which we had been forewarned" by the tone of earlier speeches.

In his main address, Louw defended South Africa's racial separation policies of apartheid and charged some African countries with attacking his government to turn attention away from conditions of poverty and illiteracy within their borders.

Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku denounced Louw's speech as "one of the worst forms of crudity" ever displayed in the Assembly.

DEMAND WITHDRAWN

Liberian Ambassador Hepry Ford Cooper proposed the censure motion after withdrawing a demand that Louw's entire speech be expunged from the Assembly's records — which would also have been an unprecedented action.

Regarding the first motion, Louw said it would be applying a double standard. He invoked a speech by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last year in which the Canadian had warned against using a double standard in connection with Communist and old-style imperialism.

UN Urges Dag Probe

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations steering committee agreed unanimously Wednesday to place on the General Assembly agenda a request for an international investigation into the plane crash that killed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Army Rightists Crushed In Latin Revolt

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — President Lleras Camargo last night decreed a state of siege, martial law, only a few hours after the government crushed an attempted right-wing revolt by army troops. One revolt leader was killed.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast the state of siege stems from a growing wave of disorders throughout the nation including "attempts at open rebellion."

'Servants' Fed Up With Title

OTTAWA (CP) — Some civil servants are getting tired of being called just that.

They are asking the Civil Service Association of Canada to "use all means possible" to abolish the term.

The association's Ottawa-Hull local council, which represents 12,000 civil servants, Tuesday night approved a resolution proposing "to have employees of the government of Canada described as such, rather than as civil servants."

Charles Surtees, an external affairs department official who moved the resolution, argued that the term civil servant takes away from the good job most of them are doing.

DANGER—CONTINUES

Lleras Camargo said that although all recent attempts to overthrow the government had been thwarted the "danger of continued attempts exists."

He added government officials and army leaders believe the new revolt attempt as well as continuing guerrilla activities near the Venezuelan border are all part of a plan.

DARK INTERNATIONAL

Lleras Camargo said international Communism and "retired dictators" were "inspiring" the attempts and accused leftists and rightists of joining together in a "dark international."

He said their aim was to block forthcoming elections.

Napoleon Murdered Historian Declares

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A Swedish historian-dentist claimed Wednesday he has unearthed evidence that Napoleon was murdered.

Dr. Sten Forshufvud told a press conference that research into available documents plus chemical evidence indicated Napoleon was slowly poisoned over a long period by doses of arsenic and bitter almonds.

The historian-dentist names as the most likely murderer of Napoleon, Marshal Montholon, executor of the will of the French emperor.

Forshufvud said he obtained some of Napoleon's hair and sent it for analysis—without revealing its origin—to Glasgow University in Scotland.

University scientists replied there was an unusually large quantity of arsenic in the hair, Forshufvud said.

More research led him to pin the crime on Montholon. Most historians held Napoleon died of stomach cancer.

Britain to Slow Down Flow of Immigrants

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — Home Secretary Richard A. Butler yesterday promised the Conservative party conference that the government would slow the flow of Commonwealth immigrants into Britain.

Butler said the measures the government had in mind would be discussed with Commonwealth countries and added: "I have no intention of introducing legislation based on color."

No Easy Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy told a news conference yesterday his talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "did not give us any immediate hopes" that the East-West dispute over Berlin would be "easily settled."

He said that talks will continue with Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson consulting with the Soviets in Moscow and with the United States consulting with its Allies to get a common position.

Kennedy said the U.S. goal was to "have a solution that would end the threat of war" and improve the security of the people of West Berlin. There is no conclusion yet, he said, as to what the ultimate outcome will be.

The president said "we happen to live in the most dangerous time in the history of the human race."

Asked for his views of public opinion polls showing Americans more worried about a possible war than at any time in recent years, he said Americans were "naturally and quite correctly concerned."

Stressing the need for fall-out protection, Kennedy said the U.S. is in for "a long period of constant tension" during which nuclear weapons will be "proliferating."

He emphasized that the Red Chinese so far had shown no evidence that they "wish to live in comity with us."

'Steel Yourselves to Shoot Your Fellow-Countrymen'

West German President Talks Tough to Troops

BERLIN (AP)—West German President Heinrich Lübke warned West Germans Wednesday to steel themselves to shoot at East Germans if necessary in defence of their freedom.

Lübke made his speech to officers at an advanced leadership academy for the armed forces at Hamburg.

The speech came a few hours after East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht suggested a non-aggression pact between the Communist bloc and the West—to be signed after the Berlin crisis has been settled on Communist terms.

Lübke's speech drew a furious response from the East German Communists. The official ADN news agency said he "employed slogans like those used by German imperialists, including Hitler, to camouflage their war preparations."

Pioneer Busman Dies Aged 61

Robert Gerald Jackson, 61, known to thousands of Victorians who rode the C & C bus to Patricia Bay Airport, died Tuesday at Chemainus General Hospital.

During his years in the transportation field he was a pioneer bus driver on the Victoria-Alberni line and an ambulance driver.

He was also well-known as a fishing and hunting guide and logger.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Jackson served aboard the destroyer HMCS Rainbow.

He retired from the C & C firm last spring and later went up-island to live with his sister.

He is survived by a son, Kenneth Jackson of Victoria, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Nelson of Chemainus.

Mr. Jackson will be buried in the veterans' section of Mountain View Cemetery.

Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh will officiate at funeral services to be held at Hirst funeral home at 2 p.m. today.

N. F. Parkinson

A well-known Canadian mining official died suddenly in Victoria Tuesday in Norman Frederick Parkinson, 71, of 2615 Queenswood Drive.

Mr. Parkinson before retiring five years ago and coming to live in Victoria was executive director of the Ontario Mining Association. Previously he had been secretary-treasurer of Falconbridge Nickel Mines

Medical evidence indicated that the elderly pedestrian sustained multiple fractures to both legs and internal injuries, and that death was due to shock and confinement. Witnesses said Mr. Hall was wearing dark clothing at the time, and that there was no indication of speed on the part of the car involved, driven by Kenneth Paskin, 557 Hurst.

A spirited fight for the presidency of the B.C. Liberal Association was shaping up yesterday as organizers polished up final plans for the association's annual convention to be held at the Empress Hotel Friday and Saturday.

Officials said that between 400 and 500 accredited delegates will attend the two-day meeting which will be the first of three important provincial political conventions to be held this month.

MORE CONVENTIONS

Social Credit's annual convention and the founding convention of the B.C. section of the New Democratic Party are slated to be held at the same time at the end of the month in Vancouver.

Fight for the presidency of the Liberal association was sparked after present incumbent Robert Hayman declined to stand again.

THREE CONTENDERS

Vancouver lawyer Jack Taggart, Hugh Martin, president of Maxwell Construction, and William Gilmore of Summerland are the three contenders for the post.

Keynote address will be delivered to the convention by party leader R. J. Perrault, M.L.A. at 10 a.m. Friday. Sen. John Connolly, president of the National Liberal Federation, will speak at a luncheon at noon on Friday.

PEARSON DUE HERE

National Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson is due to arrive here Saturday afternoon and will be speaker at the convention banquet at 7.30 p.m. that day.

Mr. Pearson will also be on the convention platform when an open forum and question period is scheduled for 2.30 p.m. Saturday.

1,000 ELIGIBLE

Officials said that there are 1,000 delegates eligible to attend the meeting and about half will attend. Those who do come will hold proxies of those who do not.

A large number of resolutions will be up for discussion ranging in topics from power policies to Indian affairs.

R. J. Livingstone

Robert James Livingstone, 64, native of Victoria and resident of California for the last 40 years, died recently while on vacation at Lake Tahoe.

Mr. Livingstone attended George Jay, Boys' Central and Victoria High Schools, then worked briefly for British America Paint Company before going overseas in the First World War, when he was a stretcher bearer.

Soon after returning home he moved to California.

Survivors include his father, Robert Livingstone, 732 Yates; his widow at home, and two married daughters.

Color Slide Hints Given

A demonstration of the technique of producing good color slides was given members of the Capital City branch of the Color Photographic Association of Canada recently by Art Stiff.

The branch will hold its next meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gray, 1507 Athlone Drive, at 8 p.m. Monday. Alden White will show slides taken on a trip to New Zealand.

Brushing Teeth Thrice Daily Insufficient to Halt Bad Breath

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

More inquiries about bad breath—"What causes it?" and "What can I do about it?"

Not so many years ago such letter writers usually added, "I brush my teeth three times a day and use a mouthwash—so what else could I possibly do?"

BECOME JAMMED

Dental disease can cause bad breath. Sometimes diseases of the gums can produce it. And, because of the shape and spacing of teeth, some people are much more likely to have particles of food become jammed between the teeth, invisibly.

A spool of dental floss and a few minutes spent in dragging out some of these particles can surprise you. And for some people, no amount of brushing will get them out.

What other sources of bad breath? Infected tonsils, sinuses, adenoids, nasal infections or lung diseases.

There's a popular misconception that faulty or irregular elimination may cause bad breath and that cathartics will help. I can't put much stock in this idea.

But I can, in some cases, agree that what one eats or how one's digestion works may be involved. Onions, garlic, leeks and some other foods have a persistent aroma.

CERTAIN THINGS

I can't help believing, without scientific proof, that some people smell worse than others as the result of eating certain things.

And with some individuals cutting down on sugar helps. I can't offer positive reasons.

It's some vagary of physical chemistry, I guess.

A final possibility is disease of the gall bladder or stomach, which may or may not be associated with how much fat we eat. If the gall bladder is out of order, our digestion of fats is likely to be impaired.

Whether for this reason, sometimes bad breath is relieved if the patient switches to vegetable oils in cooking and avoids solid fats.

DEAR DR. MOLNER:

My legs are very unsightly from ingrown, embedded hairs. Can anything be done?

Beard and the back of the neck are the usual area for this. I'm not aware it happens on the legs. Are you sure this is the situation? I'd suggest examination by a dermatologist.

Nuclear War Danger Made Clear to Reds

Britain Convinces Gromyko

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home said Wednesday Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko went home convinced that a fight and possibly a nuclear war could result from interference with the West's rights of access to Berlin.

Lord Home was reporting to the opening of the Conservative party's four-day annual conference here on the Russian's talks in London during a 24-hour stopover en route to Moscow from talks with President Kennedy in Washington.

SAW MACMILLAN

Gromyko, who left for Moscow Wednesday, conferred with Prime Minister Macmillan and with Home during his London stop.

Of the possibility of a Berlin clash that could lead to nuclear war, Home said: "I think that we succeeded in convincing Mr. Gromyko that situation must not be allowed to arise."

The foreign secretary criticized excessive venting of the West's position by public statements during negotiations on Berlin.

He said such statements were "part of our tradition of free speech," but added: "I must ask everyone to remember that the Communist technique of negotiation is to pocket each concession and then raise the bid."

SUPPORT URGED

With only one dissenting vote the conference passed an emergency resolution calling for full support for the Macmillan government and the Western Allies on "the freedom and viability of West Berlin."

"The foreign secretary criticized people who said they did not want to fight for the Germans and said: 'If free men cannot combine to defend an outpost of freedom, it will not be long before the flames of the main defences are turned and liberty is menaced everywhere.'"

Opening Gambit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—To honor the superstition there will be no 12th floor in a new 12-story building being dedicated this week. The dedication is scheduled for Friday—the 12th.

'Parked' Rockets Next Space Step

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States by next June hopes to test a system to make rockets rendezvous in space, James Webb, the U.S. national space agency chief, said Wednesday.

If successful, this could lead to landing three men on the moon by 1967 or 1968—one to two years ahead of the target deadline set by President Kennedy, Webb said.

INTERMEDIATE STEP

An intermediate step, by 1964, would be to "park" and actually join rocket payloads meeting in orbit. This way, an orbiting launching pad could be created to send men on to the moon and back.

PLANS OUTLINED

Webb and Werner von Braun, German-born rocket expert, outlined the plans at a press conference.

They indicated the 1967 or 1968 date could beat the Soviet Union to the moon.

X-15 leaves mother ship on way to record flight.

Plane Rockets Forty Miles Up

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X-15 rocketed 40 miles into space Wednesday, then slammed back into the atmosphere in a plunge that cracked the tiny plane's windshield.

Maj. Bob White of the U.S. Air Force landed safely after setting a record, for winged flight. He soared to 215,000 feet (40,719 feet) more than eight miles higher than the previous X-15 record of 169,600 feet.

This altitude has been exceeded only by the two American and two Russian astronauts, who shot more than 100 miles high in missile-launched capsules over which they had little control.

White hit a top speed of 3,477 miles an hour on his rocket ride Wednesday. He previously had gone 3,602 mph. The X-15 speed record was 3,645 mph, set by test pilot Joe Walker.

White, 37, said the crack in the outer glass pane of the double windshield did not interfere with his control of the plane.

The flight—most dangerous yet attempted by an X-15 pilot—was planned to test the rocket-propelled ship's ability to withstand the stresses future space craft must endure in re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

White's re-entry manoeuvre Wednesday would have pulled the wings off a conventional plane.

Noising over at the top of his climb, White plunged downward 16 miles at more than 3,000 mph before pulling back on his control stick. The plane flattened out and splashed back into the atmosphere.

Mrs. FDR Ignores Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt marked her 77th birthday yesterday by not holding any celebration.

"She only marks her birthday every five years," said Maureen Corr, the former first lady's secretary. "She won't give any special attention to her birthday now until she is 80."

Mrs. Roosevelt, who recently underwent a hospital checkup, was "feeling wonderfully well," her secretary added. "Her usual work schedule," as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations and a participant in many other affairs were her only birthday plans.

Troubles Mount For Jimmy Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, was indicted in Orlando, Fla., for a second time yesterday on fraud charges involving alleged misuse of more than $500,000 in union funds.

The United States justice department, announcing the federal grand jury's action, said the indictment also names Robert E. McCarthy, Detroit banking executive.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The high command of the AFL-CIO opened a full-scale attack yesterday on James Hoffa, inviting every teamster local union dissatisfied with Hoffa's leadership to break with him and join the international organization.

AFL-CIO president George Meany, backed by an overwhelming vote from the executive council, said he would grant a "federal charter" to any teamster local "unhappy with Jimmy."

Hatbox Hid $29,950 Husband Tells Trial

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Testimony ended in the strange Pottsville burglary trial Wednesday without the defendant, Lillian Reis, taking the stand. Lawyer John Lavelle rested the case after Michael Corabi, 42, Miss Reis' husband, testified he helped her count nearly $30,000 before the Pottsville burglary was committed.

THREE CONVICTED

Miss Reis, owner of the Celebrity Room night club in Philadelphia, is charged with hiring burglars to loot the safe of John B. Rich, Pottsville coal operator, in August, 1959. Rich says about $20,000 was taken. Police have testified they understood the haul was as much as $478,000. Three men already have been convicted of participating in the burglary.

Corabi, who said he has been separated from the 32-year-old defendant for about two years, testified she went to the cellar

Easing the Tension

IT IS WHOLLY possible that the United States government would be making a great contribution toward the easing of world tension if it accepts at face value the suggestion of Red China's foreign minister that it take the initiative in proposing top-level talks between the two countries.

Marshal Chen Yi made it abundantly clear that China would be willing to accept such a proposal though it would have to come from the United States. He has thus placed the onus for any such approach completely on the American government.

Though certain it is that any move toward following the marshal's suggestion would be opposed on principle in some quarters in Washington on the basis that it would demonstrate a weakness of American policy, the proposition deserves serious study.

China is no longer the backward and primitive country of yesterday to be regarded simply as a thorn in the side of progress. China today has a place in the world and within months may emerge as the fifth nuclear power, able to force its will upon its neighbors for either good or evil purpose.

The United States is in a peculiar position regarding China in that it has steadfastly refused to acknowledge the very existence of either the Peking Communist regime or the 600 million people the latter has ruled for the past 12 years.

Neither country has diplomatic representation with the other and all business transactions between the two—even to the sorry affair of repatriating American prisoners-of-war after the Korean campaign—have to be conducted through a third party.

This total lack of communication between two great powers could well be a major reason for the increasing worsening of the West's position in Asia. Such a situation is difficult for the Asiatic mind to grasp—for as much as we boast of the Western mind being broad and tolerant, the Oriental mind is realistic.

If a serious effort were made by either side to find a common meeting place for both these minds much might be accomplished. The matter rests now with the Washington administration and it is to be fervently hoped that obstructionist elements do not prevail in choosing to save face rather than save the peace.

An Alternative

DID CANADA make a mistake when at Mont Tremblant in 1958, it tabbed without comment a suggestion made by Sir David Eccles, president of the British Board of Trade, that Canada and Britain should set up a free trade pact?

At that time the thought that Britain might be in a position to "swamp" the Canadian market with its manufactured goods which Canadian manufacturers, with their heavier costs and wages, could not match was too much for the Canadian economic stomach to take.

Canada's Finance Minister Donald Fleming appeared to be taken off-balance by the radical suggestion, and he allowed the invitation to pass without comment.

That was only three years ago, but since then Britain's economic policy has changed so violently that Canada might today grasp willingly at a chance of free trade with Britain as an alternative to that country's joining the European Common Market.

That impression, at least, is given by Minister of Trade George Hees. In a talk this week to a Toronto service club, Mr. Hees expanded the Eccles idea of 1958 by suggesting that if Britain could not get the required amount of satisfaction for its Commonwealth partners within ECU, then the alternative might be a greatly expanded trade pact within the Commonwealth.

Although Britain and the Commonwealth nations enjoy a great deal of highly preferential trade treatment among one another, Imperial preference is still far removed from being a state of complete free trade, and it is possible that if all trade barriers were dropped, the possibility of inter-Commonwealth trade might be tremendously enlarged as Mr. Hees believes.

So far as the automobile industry is concerned, Britain might take quite another look at its position with Canada if this country allowed British cars to enter the Canadian market without any duties or taxes and at the price British manufacturers were prepared to take.

Maybe the change of heart towards Sir David Eccles' invitation is too late, but if the ECU talks do become bogged down, then the Canadian government might be wise to use its full force in proposing this as an acceptable alternative.

The White Liners

VICTORIANS GLIMPSE the big white liners of the P and O-Orient line when they pass the waterfront, as in the case of Sa Arcadia this week, en route to and from Vancouver, the line's only scheduled port of call in the Pacific Northwest. They are one of the maritime sights of these waters.

These ships don't put in here because even a diversionary call runs into thousands of dollars, and Vancouver is the key port of the West Coast.

Nevertheless Seattle has eyed these Orient liners with envy, and in promotion of its status as a seaport has persuaded the company to divert the 30,000-ton Arcadia to Puget Sound waters on a courtesy visit tomorrow. The mayor of Seattle has proclaimed the occasion as "Arcadia Day" and a large-scale maritime welcome is awaiting the ship.

This will cause local regret that a similar visit could not have been arranged here.

It could be next year, probably, if the centennial committee takes the matter in hand with some promptitude. In recognition of Seattle's "Century 21" world's fair the P and O Line has scheduled the Sa Iberia to call there. A parallel visit to Victoria for its centenary celebration is bound therefore to invite equal consideration.

Beyond the 1962 visit of the Iberia to Seattle a company official says that further visits are a matter of policy, but if the Seattle calls prove financially successful annual calls may be possible.

That Victoria could match the annual inducement of Seattle is not feasible although in the prewar days this was a regular port of call for large liners on the Pacific routes. But as an attractive addition to the centennial program a visit by one of these giant and beautiful passenger ships would be very popular.

This would seem easy enough to arrange if the proper representations were made without delay.

"I'LL HUFF-AND I'LL PUFF-AND I'LL BLOW YOUR HOUSE IN"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sailing seas...
By TOM TAYLOR

I HAVE affirmed more than once that Victoria is the home of the cognoscente. In the wide sense that it is filled with people of varied knowledge and first-hand experience. Indeed a columnist who indulges in flights of fancy has to beware lest he conflict with someone who is the real expert on the subject.

Nothing under the sun, almost, is unknown to some Victorians.

A letter to hand from an Oak Bay reader bears this out, presenting as it does a personal impression of the famous T. E. Lawrence gained by close contact with him.

I thought you might like to hear what my reader says. He writes:

"I read your article on the American filming of Lawrence of Arabia with perhaps more interest than many."

"I was proud and fortunate to be selected as the military intelligence secretary of T. E. Lawrence and worked closely with him in the Egyptian war office in Cairo in 1914-1915. I naturally knew every opportunity of knowing him well."

"As you say he was a most austere young man dedicated to his country and only interested in the giving of his great knowledge of the Arab and the Middle East. Modest and self-effacing—a almost apologetic in his approach to others."

"In requesting me to do something he would always commence, 'I say, ... would you mind, etc.'"

"He was not interested in the usual pleasures; he neither drank nor smoked, and got his relaxation in riding a very lightweight motor-cycle, which became a major catastrophe when it was stolen; he was quite poor."

"He was not a soldier in the military sense but wore the uniform of the Royal Warwickshire Regiment (feather sloppily) when it was necessary to do so for various reasons. He used to say: 'I envy you your pride of regiment as I am only a make-believe soldier.'"

"I can imagine the sardonic look on his face had he lived to read about the filming of his life, with attendant bars, barmaids and all."

"When a well-known Turkish bullet put me out of action he said: 'I've still to really face an enemy—wonder how I will behave?'"

"I can only hope the film industry will not introduce drum majorettes and baton twirlers to make a travesty of a great man."

Lawrence has become a legend and some facets of a legend always remain puzzling in their assessment of personality. Not all biographers worry about this.

Inhibition has not restrained some authors from derogatory comment even though, unlike my Oak Bay reader, they knew him not and never met him.

I presume my correspondent parted company with Lawrence after being wounded, and was not with him during the campaign that saw him burrow into a guerrilla leader perhaps without peer. But one cannot spend two years in close association with a man and not learn something about his character and disposition.

Here then in Victoria is a personal note from one who knew him intimately over a period; it should interest all those to whom Lawrence of Arabia is an intriguing and historic figure.

Emigration the Big Issue

By JOHN BAKER WHITE
Telegram News Service

FOR over 100 years, the outflow of her young people has been a problem for Eire. Emigration has been a dominating issue in every parliamentary election since the country achieved independence—and that has certainly been the case in 1961.

All over the world, there are strong Irish communities watching, all asking the same question: What is the answer to emigration?

It was to try to find the answer that I have just visited Ireland, specially the western areas where emigration has been greatest.

While the problem is an old one, the approach to it is new. I came back impressed by the enthusiasm with which dedicated government officials are tackling it.

The size of their task can be outlined in a few striking, sombre figures.

The population of Eire in 1956, at the last census, was 2,898,000. Today, it is approximately 2,814,000—a fall of 2.8 per cent in five years.

The Registrar General's report shows that emigration reached a total of 47,000 between April, 1960, and April, 1961. The average rate is about 40,000 per year.

Total unemployed in mid-August was 35,000, or 4.9 per cent of the working population, as against 45,000, or 6.9 per cent, at the same date in 1960. Ireland is the only country in Western Europe with a labor surplus.

Many of those looking for jobs outside Ireland have gone to Britain in recent years; many of the girls into hotels and the catering trades.

While I was in Dublin, the possibility of using Irish workers in West German industry was under discussion. That is not surprising, for to quote the opinion of a German works manager, "they are first class."

It has been suggested that the Irish economy is in danger of breaking down because of an aging industrial population, and that many families exist on what is sent to them by relatives abroad.

"That is just not true," was the emphatic reply given to me by a senior official of the Department of Industry and Commerce. Though in the west there is a noticeable lack of men between 18 and 30, there is no long-term labor shortage.

As to the influence of payments by relatives abroad, they totalled $28 million in 1960 out of a national income of a million and a half. That is not a large sum.

ON a canoe trip a couple of years ago my party made camp on an island on which a man and his wife were already camped on another site. After supper, we went over and paid a friendly visit. made itself felt most sharply, but with mechanization the value of farm output is rising.

Ireland is now producing some 160,000 tons of beet sugar per year, and the growing number of creameries is helping to give dairy farms a steady income.

Though 15,000 new jobs in industry in five years is an achievement, it does not solve the problem of the outflow of workers at a rate of over 40,000 per year. That is why Ireland attaches so much importance to the development of her tourist industry, already a large earner of foreign currency.

In a country where the scenery is lovely, the roads uncrowded, the people friendly and with natural good manners, tourism is an industry capable of big developments, providing increasing employment.

Income tax on net profits is 32c in the pound, and no tax is payable for a 10-year period on profits earned on new exports.

Industry spells power, and in Ireland power spells peace. More and more of Ireland's electrical power comes from plants where the boilers are fired with milled peat.

Irish agriculture produces about one-third of the gross national product, and some 300,000 families are dependent upon it. It is on the small holdings that emigration has

Yugoslavs Are

Upset by Moscow

By LAJOS LEVENE, from London

THE new bitter exchanges between Russia and Yugoslavia, almost on the eve of the 22nd Communist Party Congress of the Soviet Union, have appeared to have reconciled Soviet and Chinese views on the danger of Yugoslav "revisionism," a danger which Russia appeared recently to have dismissed. Western observers believe that the new Soviet-Chinese entente may well find other means of expression during the course of the congress.

The Soviet attack on the Yugoslavs has been the sharpest and most violent since the days of Stalin. Transmitted by Moscow radio, it harshly criticized Yugoslav policy in general and the Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Mr. Koca Popovic, in particular. The broadcast compared Yugoslav revisionism to the Nazi "fifth column" tactics and accused the Yugoslav leaders of "becoming the tool of the most reactionary forces" at a time "when the clouds of a rocket and nuclear war hang over the world."

The Soviet attack has deeply disturbed the Yugoslavs, coming at a time when the two countries seemed to have reached a particularly friendly understanding during the past 12 months, when they had agreed on a common policy on most major foreign affairs issues, and only a few weeks after an official visit to Moscow by Mr. Popovic in which he had talks with Mr. Khrushchev which were described in the joint communiqué as "most cordial and friendly."

The apparent success of the Popovic visit, reinforced by Marshal Tito's unexpectedly conciliatory speech at the Belgrade conference of non-aligned nations last month, in which the Yugoslav leader sought to show an understanding of Mr. Khrushchev's decision to resume nuclear testing, had led the Yugoslavs to believe that cordial relations with the Russians were an accomplished fact.

Stunned at first by the unexpected blow, the Yugoslavs have now responded sharply to the new Soviet blast. The latest issue of Komunist, the official organ of Marshal Tito, has broken the silence imposed on the press by an authoritative article attacking the Soviet leadership "for its minor brutal interference in Yugoslavia's internal affairs," and asserting that "the theme laid down in the Moscow program for the 22nd Congress are completely identical in their language and essence" with Stalin's views on Yugoslavia.

The Soviet leaders once again, says the Belgrade journal, are attempting to separate the Yugoslav people from their leaders and to condemn "this perfidious attempt to legalize this practice on behalf of socialism and true Marxism."

It is a measure of Yugoslav concern that, after having leaned backwards for so long to modify the Russians, they now apparently feel that nothing is now to be gained by pursuing this policy and have chosen to break the news to their people to prepare them for the storm.

Washington Calling

Survivor Problems

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN a twilight zone of uncertainty a great many Americans are apparently troubled and confused over the problem of fallout shelters and survival in a nuclear war. President Kennedy in his United Nations address spoke of such a war as making a flaming funeral pyre of the world.

On the other hand, both in and out of the government, some are saying that shelters may save lives and that a home shelter program will strengthen the nation's readiness to meet nuclear war if it should come.

Farthest out in this view are those such as physicist Edward Teller, often called father of the H-bomb, who seems to suggest that recovery from nuclear war would be relatively simple and not too prolonged.

The truth, as the average individual must feel, is hard to come by. That is why a statement the other day, by a scientist with competence to speak on the problem of survival of mankind in the completely new environment created by nuclear fission, should be given proper weight.

Dr. John M. Wolfe is chief of the Environmental Sciences Branch and director of biology and medicine of the Atomic Energy Commission. He took part in a symposium at Colorado State University on radioecology. Ecology deals with the way in which living creatures, man among them, get along in their environment.

The basic thesis of the paper Dr. Wolfe delivered was that man, as with other organisms, must modify his mode of living in order to persist in changing environments. If his capacity to "adapt" is less than the magnitude of the changes confronting him, then he must migrate or perish.

This seems elemental enough as applied to the way man has messed up his environment in one epoch after another. Dust storms and deserts, catastrophic wars and barbaric invasions have overtaken proud civilizations that were supposed to last forever. Once-powerful societies have gone down when the men who comprised them failed to "adapt" or migrate.

But it is when Dr. Wolfe applies this to the totally new equation of nuclear war that the result is startling. Given his specialization in the problem of man's survival his words cannot be lightly dismissed.

If I Had a Million

By CASSANDRA

"If I had a million" is the sweetest part of the dream world of the British people. Hence their almost maniacal preoccupation with football pools.

With penal taxation amounting to confiscation, there is no other way out. The ordinary wage-earner, hemmed in by PAYE and unable to get a rise unless it is through the ponderous mass-mechanism of his trade union, dreams and dreams again of his sudden release from the financial cell in which he is almost certainly doomed to remain for the rest of his life.

People never stop talking to me about what they would do if they won the pools.

Usually what they say is a cloying and self-pitying humbug. They are going to help the aged, the sick and the poor. They are going to surprise their friends with a burst of generosity that will overwhelm them. They are going to do good, good, good.

That's had enough because I know that they have rarely done grand in the past, and that sudden wealth is not likely to lead to saintliness in the future.

But what is worse is the kind of winner who says: "This will make no difference to me. I shall continue as usual. We may have a better house but we will invest and save. Money really doesn't matter to us in the slightest."

The latest escape from financial cramp (and it is much more difficult from the statistical point of view than escaping from East to West Berlin) is Mrs. Vivian Nicholson, whose coal-miner husband has just copped over £152,000 from the pools.

With a most welcome burst of unassuming candor, the last

"The effects of nuclear war on man and his environment are awesome to contemplate. Thermal and blast effects, and concomitant radiation, would create vast areas that would be useless to the survival of man."

"Fallout shelters in many areas seem only a means of delaying death and represent only a part of a survival plan. With an environment so completely modified, the question is where does man go after his sojourn in shelters? What does he do upon emergence?"

In other words, supposing your shelter was far enough from the centre of the blast and beyond the area of fire storms, spreading outward from the blast and you had made adequate preparation to stay underground to escape the first massive lethal fallout—and you survived. But you would come out to an all but uninhabitable desert. Even if some semblance of civil order had been preserved—most unlikely in view of the appalling chaos—the means of existence, heat, light, water, food, would be virtually non-existent.

Of the sensational treatment of the aftermath of nuclear war, perhaps the most spectacular and also the most widely circulated was "On the Beach" by the late Neville Shute. This pictured a world in which virtually all life was doomed with the last survivors waiting in Australia for the lethal fallout to overtake them.

Scientists now generally reject the view of total destruction. The sequence would be roughly as follows. Immediately following the explosion of a number of megaton missiles a massive fallout consisting of about 50 per cent of the total radioactive material released in the atmosphere would fall on the northern half of the globe. From six weeks to two months after rains would bring down another 30 to 40 per cent of the total again in the northern part of the globe. Those who escaped the first lethal dose would almost certainly be destroyed in the second, unless extraordinary preparations had been made to live underground for an indefinite time.

The remaining five to 10 per cent of the radioactive material released in the war would move into the upper atmosphere and gradually sift down over the entire globe. But this would not be lethal and life south of the equator would survive with some damaging effects from the five to 10 per cent, such as a greater incidence of leukemia and more birth mutations.

The shelter talk may increase what recent visitors to this country feel is a growing war psychosis—a combination of fear and uncertainty generating a "let's get it over with" psychology. The stark truth as exemplified in Dr. Wolfe's conclusions, might also feed this psychosis. Yet, on the other hand, after the first shock the truth from one who spoke with full authority could have a salutary effect and ease the tensions that grow in a twilight zone.

"I knew they were there but I ignored them," Ambassador Ushiba told reporters. "We do not like their politics. They are not friendly to us."

"Ushiba who?" a member of the Chinese delegation asked the newsmen blandly.

Local Japanese officials decreed at the airport there would be no joint interviews because this would be "improper."

Airline and consular officials stood guard at the door, while the Chinese and department of trade and commerce officials there to welcome them cooled their heels. Then the Chinese entered for their own interview.

Said an airline spokesman: "It was a matter of protocol."

The ambassador and Chinese traders left later for Ottawa by different planes.

Brazilians Demand Return of Quadros

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A campaign to bring ex-president Janio Quadros back to power in Brazil has begun, mainly in the interior where he long had strong support.

Political and diplomatic quarters are discussing two ways he might return from London, where he went into self-imposed exile after his dramatic resignation last August:

1. To return as a saviour should a chaotic social or political situation develop.
2. To return as premier by winning a seat in Congress in next year's elections.

The drive for his return is called the "Janio was right" campaign. Its aim is to show that Quadros was forced to resign by an apathetic Congress, a hostile press and powerful economic groups.

In the backlands, where Quadros built up a considerable following during his seven months in office, pamphlets are being dropped from airplanes and pasted on walls.

When he sailed for London, Quadros left behind a dramatic message. It was a simple but emotion-packed: "I will return."

In resigning, Quadros also referred to the economic, political and press hostility and talked darkly of powerful hostile outside influences, presumably the United States.

Hammer Outlawed As Stunning Weapon

EDMONTON (CP)—Slaughterhouses in Alberta now must render all animals unconscious before killing them under new regulations passed by the provincial government. It was announced today.

The regulations, urged by the SPCA and other groups interested in the humane killing of animals, are designed to discourage the use of the hammer as a stunning weapon. Agriculture Minister L. C. Halmrast said.

The regulations permit the use of gas, electric shock, shooting and a gun designed to stun an animal before bleeding.

Mr. Halmrast said the regulations will help eliminate crude stunning methods. Some of the smaller slaughterhouses, he said, still use a hammer.

Exempt from the new ruling is the Jewish ritual of animal slaughter where the animal's jugular vein is cut with a sharp knife by a Rabbi. However, the animal "must be restrained."

Mr. Halmrast said that the animal must be held tightly in place prior to killing.

U.K. to Soothe Tempers With New Grain Deal

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Free Press says there is growing speculation in grain trade circles that the United Kingdom will enter a new five-year wheat-purchasing agreement with Canada to soothe opponents in this country to Britain's contemplated entry into the European Common Market.

The newspaper says rumors are that Agriculture Minister Hamilton will announce the new agreement soon.

"It is strongly rumored that the amount (of grain) involved will be large when compared with other big wheat sales made of late—notably to mainland China, which amounted to 186,000,000 bushels over a 2½-year period," the paper says.

The last U.K.-Canada wheat agreement covered the period 1946-1950, calling for the sale, at fixed prices, of 800,000,000 bushels.

The speculation among grain traders includes the belief that if an agreement is made now the U.K. could take the position during negotiations for entering the Common Market that she had a prior contract with Canada that would have to be fulfilled despite the EEC's tariff barriers.

"Grounds for speculation were given recently when Mr. Hamilton told a farm organization meeting in Regina he hoped to announce soon a large sale of wheat to an unnamed country on a five-year agreement," the newspaper says.

"He emphasized it would not be Communist China."

Whirlwind Drive Asks Public To Vote 'Yes' for Schools

A short, whirlwind campaign to win approval of Greater Victoria ratepayers for a $3,755,000 building program over three years in School District 61 was launched last night.

Most likely voting date for the referendum is Oct. 28, but school board chairman W. C. Gelling said this can only be confirmed by the board at a special meeting Friday.

DELUGE PLANNED

With cabinet approval of the program announced by Education Minister Peterson, trustees plan a "deluge" of publicity on the urgent need for classrooms.

Presidents of 30 PTA groups are armed with names of the 20,000 ratepayers on voters lists in the area.

DAY OR TWO

Mrs. A. B. Thompson, an officer of the provincial parent-teacher body, said each PTA will be responsible for calling ratepayers on their own list a day or two before the vote. Every effort has been made to avoid duplication.

Service clubs have the job of distributing bumper strips and display cards promoting the bylaw.

HOLD IN INTEREST

Mr. Gelling said the shortness of time, if it is a factor, "is good from our point of view."

He said a whirlwind campaign helps create and hold interest and: "After all, the public is well aware of the urgent needs for new classrooms by next September if we are to avoid shift classes next year."

Mr. Gelling said the Chant report forced the board to delay the vote nearly a year and urgent need for new classrooms prompted an early voting date.

"We feel these classrooms have to be built sometime, but it would be an advantage to get the work done in winter when employment is generally low in the building trades."

NEW SITES

The bylaw calls for $750,280 for new sites and old site development, $2,537,075 for construction of buildings and $220,000 for classroom equipment.

Only new school to be constructed will be a $153,200 project in the Richmond-Newton area. Site development and a portable classroom, at a cost of $35,500, will be set up off the North Ridge area off Carey Road.

AREAS LISTED

Sites for new schools will be acquired and prepared in the following areas:

Christmas Hill area ($34,850); Ferndale Avenue ($52,000); Rock Heights Avenue ($45,200); and Ten Mile Point area ($22,300).

The elementary school program also includes $26,000 for units for retarded children.

FUTURE EXPANSION

Only $245,550 of the bylaw would be spent on high schools, mainly for site development in preparation for further expansion in future.

A sum of $75,000 would be added to the $75,000 in hand for construction of a new administrative centre so that school board offices could be removed from Craigdarroch Castle.

Planning, supervision and contingency reserve for the program would total $247,645.

Here is the list of elementary schools that will be expanded and total cost of site, building and equipment expenses:

Burnside School, 2 rooms, $56,500; Cloverdale, 4 rooms in an annex, $106,500; Craigflower, 12 classrooms and an activity room, $307,500; Doncaster, 4 rooms, $71,500; Frank Hobbs, 2 rooms, $37,250;

MORE FIGURES

George Jay, 8 rooms, $180,930; Glenford, 4 rooms, $108,400; Gordon Head, 2 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $89,750; Hampton, 2 rooms, $49,375; James Bay, equipment and construction, $41,500; Lake Hill, 6 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $141,825; Macaulay, 8 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $178,350;

Margaret Jenkins, site development only, $3,000; Marigold, 4 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $103,650; Monterey, 6 rooms and staff room renovation, $171,000; McKenzie Avenue, 8 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $228,500; Oaklands, site development only, $3,000; Quadra, 4 rooms, $134,450;

ACTIVITY ROOM

Richmond, site development only, $6,500; Shelbourne, 3 rooms, $80,875; Sir James Douglas, room renovations, $19,000; Strawberry Vale, 2 rooms and an activity room, $59,750; Tillicum, 8 rooms, $201,500; Tolmie, 6 rooms, $137,000;

Uplands, 5 rooms and an enlarged activity room, $118,000; Victoria West, 4 rooms in an annex, $119,400; and View Royal, 2 rooms, $32,250; Willows, site improvement and renovations, $32,500.

Lights to Set Off Stained Glass

Floodlights will be installed to illuminate the stained-glass windows in the legislative buildings, it was announced yesterday.

The idea was suggested by historian James K. Nesbitt so that visitors could see the true beauty of the windows on dull days and at night.

Clothes Dryers Beat Weather

More than 4,500 households in Greater Victoria have extra time and fewer worries because they are owners of automatic clothes dryers.

Taking time out to learn what a dryer could do for them, they very quickly started participating in the benefits of having this modern appliance in their home.

And the benefits were many.

AT ANY HOUR

One could list many reasons but first perhaps comes the ease of being able to dry clothes quickly at any hour of the day or night in any season without a care in the world regarding the outside weather.

Today, when often more than one person in a family works, this independence of weather means a great deal. Recreational hours are just that rather than a matter of having to wait for the right wind and weather to "put out the wash."

SIMPLE TO OPERATE

There is a great deal of truth in the statement that if father were called upon to do the laundry the old fashioned way he would have modern laundry equipment in the household in a matter of days.

The fact is that today's automatic clothes dryer is very simple to operate. It provides extreme flexibility including opportunity to dial the drying time of various fabrics.

FRESH AIR SMELL

Where the family is large, there is a smaller expenditure on children's clothes at any one time, because clothes can be washed, dried and worn the same day.

Remember that fresh air smell of clothes dried outside on an ideal day? Some of the dryer models provide that as well.

ADDITIONAL SAVING

A dryer is a sound investment any time, but for two big reasons right at the moment.

You'll save precious hours for family activities the year 'round, with an automatic clothes dryer. Loaded in seconds, the wash is dry in minutes. Compare that with the time-wasting, weather-waiting clothes-line routine! You'll save money, too.

Many clothes (especially children's) can be worn, washed, dried and worn again, all in the same day. So you don't need to buy as many changes of clothing — and your dryer's gentle action saves costly wear and tear as well.

You save time, save money, save work, save steps—with an automatic clothes dryer. See the new models now — at your appliance dealer's.

King Fisherman List for September

Big and Little Ones Win Prince Crests

To win Prince Crests for September-caught fish in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest it took a 47.4 tye, a

29.8 spring salmon, a 15.8

colio, a 1.14 lake trout, a 1.0

river trout and a 1.0 bass.

The September crest winners include a fourth crest for Bob

Wright for his 51.4 tye from Nahmint Bay.

Mr. Wright will almost certainly get his other two crests

when October crest winners are announced — one for an 18.12 colio and one for a 3.15 lake trout — to give him the Complete Angler trophy for all six crests in one year.

September showed a decline in the freshwater fishing, mainly because of the prolonged dry spell and interest in saltwater salmon runs, but it will be a different story in October because freshwater fishing now is at its height.

Here are the winners:

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It's a strange thing how the habits of years hang on. Before, during and after the world series one could hear people saying that you could never hope to beat these blankety-blank New York Yankees because of their bench strength. It was nothing more than habit, and it was one thing that couldn't be said in truth.

Like every other club, the Yankees had 25 players on their roster but nine players, not counting the 12-man pitching staff, carried the load. And three of the nine are, or were, catchers.

The regular New York Yankee lineup had Elston Howard catching, Bill Skowron, Bobby Richardson, Tony Kubek and Cleve Boyer in the infield and Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Yogi Berra in the outfield.

These eight players averaged 147 games and 533 at bats, and a big reason that freshman manager Ralph Houk discarded the platoon system which sometimes had made Casey Stengel look like a genius was that the Yankees no longer had that potent bench.

They did, of course, have in reserve John Blanchard, who is probably the best player in the major leagues without a regular job. But to start Blanchard the Yankees had to have three catchers in the lineup or rest either Berra or Howard.

Behind Blanchard there wasn't much. Reserve infielders included Joe DeMaestri and Billy Gardner, who are known as replaceable veterans but not close to the calibre of the men they would have to replace in emergency, and Bob Hale, a first baseman who has never made his mark.

Reserve-outfielders Hector Lopez and Boh Cerny both can hit for distance but both are a bit of a liability defensively and their batting averages this season were .223 and .234 respectively.

That the Yankee bench was thin was strikingly pointed up in the fifth series game when neither Berra or Mantle could play. Blanchard and Lopez picked up the load offensively but the Yankee outfield left a lot to be desired defensively, something which could have made the difference in a closer game. And the only healthy reserves were DeMaestri, Gardner, Hale and rookie Bob Reed—hardly in the Yankee tradition.

The Cincinnati reserves—Jerry Lynch, Gus Bell, Dick Gernert, Ello Charco and Leo Cardenas—gave the Reds, if anything, an edge in bench strength.

The Yankees didn't win this year because of their bench. They won because they had better regulars than any other club and, escaping any serious injury, were able to use them in almost every game.

Some are claiming that this was the best-ever Yankee team, but this is probably claiming too much. But the 1961 Yankees were good. They had better pitching than most will yet give them credit for, they set a new team record of 240 home runs, and most of all, they had defence—an exceptional infield in Maris and Mantle two of the best fly-chasers in the business and in Howard the best receiver in the game.

Home runs get the headlines but defence wins over the long haul. The Yankee defence cut off the runs and, sooner or later, the pressure of that home-run threat the Yankee batting order posed almost from top to bottom would tell. Only two Yankee regulars averaged better than .275 but every time the Yankees got a man on base there was always that chance for two runs.

However, it was the home run and not defence which did the most to beat the Reds, knocking down the National League champions twice just as they began to believe they might have a chance. And while Whitey Ford deservedly won recognition as the outstanding player in the series, Blanchard had as much to do with the final result as anyone.

Having made it close in the first game and losing, more or less expectedly, because Ford was invincible, the Reds were definitely on the rebound as the Yankees looked anything but the Yankees in losing the second game, 6-2.

The third was the pivotal game of the series, and had the Reds won it they might well have gone the rest of the way. They started the eighth inning with a 2-1 lead and Bob Purkey pitching bitterly. And then it happened, that home run. Blanchard stepped up as a pinch-hitter and tied it up with one swing and hope kindled with confidence suddenly became doubt smothered by a feeling of the inevitable.

Maris won that one in the ninth inning with another home run, but it was Blanchard's hit that was the big one. In the fifth game and trailing, 1-3 in games, the Reds had their hopes blazoned again. If somewhat more faintly, when Berra and Mantle both came up too hurt to play. And Blanchard blew them out with a first-inning home run which produced the first two runs of the game.

Maybe we've got this all wrong. Blanchard may be the Yankee bench but it has to be said he's a good one.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Detroit and New York in tonight's National Hockey League games. Batting average to date: At bat 201, hits 126, percentage .627.

Douglas, Whitney Reed U.S. Singles Hopefuls

ROME (AP)—Jon Douglas, 21, of Santa Monica, Calif., will meet Italian tennis champion Fausto Gardini Friday in the opening singles Davis Cup on about equal terms and the inter-zone final match between the United States and Italy.

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., was paired against Nicola Pietrangeli in the second singles.

Both the Americans and the Italians said there were satisfied. But basically there appeared to be general agreement.

Good Start for New Yorkers

Boston Bruins' Andre Pronovost (22) sweeps in to recover rebound from New York Ranger goalie Gump Worsley at his acrobatic best, the Bruins opened and closed out the scoring but Worsley managed to get in front of 33 shots as he played a large part in giving freshman coach Doug Harvey a successful debut.

Harvey, who took his regular turn on the ice and had help from general manager Muzz Patrick in making player changes, touched off what proved to be the winning tally when he scored with a blazing 35-foot shot which went over the shoulder of the screened-off Don Head.

Bob Scheffing Picked 'Manager-of-Year'

The baseball season officially ended in the gloom of Cincinnati's Crosley Field Monday—although somebody seems to have forgotten to inform the team's publicity department.

Here are a few of the dregs of the major league brew that will sit on the hot stove all winter:

• Detroit Tigers, although they talked to catch New York Yankees in the American League pennant race, had their manager, Bob Scheffing named as the league's manager of the year in the Associated Press poll. Scheffing received 105 votes compared to 62 for Ralph Houk, who guided New York to the flag.

• Los Angeles Dodgers have signed manager Walt Alston to a contract for the 1962 season.

• Los Angeles Angels, who will share the new Chavez Ravine park with the Dodgers, hope to have several new, younger faces next season. They've given unconditional releases to first baseman Ted Kluszewski, infielder Rocky Bridges and catcher Del Rice.

• New York Yankees' pitchers Bob Turley and Luis Arroyo have a bout with the medical to consider after cashing their world series cheques. Turley, once great, won only three games this season and hopes that a bone chip-removal operation will cure his ailing right elbow.

Arroyo, brilliant relief ace, has a cyst on his wrist. He is reported to have received a $5,000 bonus from Yankees for his work this season.

Rangers Start Out By Beating Bruins With Goal Barrage

BOSTON—A four-goal burst in the first eight minutes of the second period set up a 6-2 victory for New York Rangers over Boston Bruins as the rookie-studded clubs who are expected to have a private scrap for fifth place opened the National Hockey League season here Wednesday night.

With New York goalkeeper Gump Worsley at his acrobatic best, the Bruins opened and closed out the scoring but Worsley managed to get in front of 33 shots as he played a large part in giving freshman coach Doug Harvey a successful debut.

Harvey, who took his regular turn on the ice and had help from general manager Muzz Patrick in making player changes, touched off what proved to be the winning tally when he scored with a blazing 35-foot shot which went over the shoulder of the screened-off Don Head.

The Bruins, who are rebuilding, used six rookies. The best of them was Orlando Kurtenbach, a big centre drafted from the Rangers who got his professional schooling with Vancouver Canucks. The Rangers had four first-year men in their lineup.

England's International Soccer Plans Suffer Reversals in Early Games

LONDON (Special) — England's international soccer plans suffered a series of reversals in early games. The national team, managed by Alf Ramsey, faced a series of setbacks in its preparation for the 1962 World Cup. The team's early games were marred by injuries and tactical changes, leading to a series of reversals in the early stages of the tournament.

At least 17 hunters were lucky enough to bag a bull elk on Vancouver Island over the weekend. Three elk were taken from Shaw Creek area of the Cowichan district, one from nearby Wardrop Creek, four from the South Fork of the Nanaimo River, five from the Nanaimo Lakes area, and four from Gold Creek area on the west coast.

No elk were reported from the Nitinat area. Hunters reported seeing plenty of fresh tracks and some saw elk but were unable to get in a shot. It was foggy in the Nitinat area Saturday morning when the elk season opened and thick mature timber in the bottomlands made hunting difficult.

There were no reports of elk bags from the Oyster River-Black Creek area, where this year there is a cow elk season for the first time on Vancouver Island since elk hunting has been allowed again.

Armando Barbon, 2638 Shakespeare, was one of the lucky hunters. He bagged his bull elk about 4:30 p.m. Saturday while hunting a little above the timber line at Shaw Creek with Ray Eickler, Fred Lundquist and Garry West.

The hunters were so proud of their bag that it was decided to bring out the whole elk to show their wives. For five hours they dragged the 600-pound five-pointer the two miles down gullies and over hills to their Model A Ford Jaloop.

"Next time we will quarter it. I will never try that again," said the fired Barbon. They had camped out overnight in the Shaw Creek area and saw their elk running with others. Barbon got a running shot. His first shot hit the bull in the chest and brought it to its knees. A second shot in the head was the clincher.

Frank Mosher of Ladysmith was the hunter who bagged the seven-pointer from Wardrop Creek. Some 305 hunters looked for the wary elk in the Shaw Creek-Nitinat area over the weekend and, as well as the elk, they bagged 13 deer from Shaw Creek area, four from Cayuse and two from Nitinat.

Access to Shaw Creek posed no big problem. B.C. Forest Products placed a registration book and passes in a box at the gate. They trusted hunters to fill out their own permits, and to deposit a duplicate in the box.

In the Nanaimo Lakes area hunting was pretty much of a dead loss on Monday. One hunter got lost and all hunting was stopped while the search was on, because any hunting would confuse any distress shots that might be fired. All hunters in the access area were pressed into the search. The man, who had been missing overnight, walked out at Youghou.

Game biologist John Bandy said most of the elk killed were relatively old animals, indicating there has not yet been any serious cropping of the elk herds.

Trigger happy hunters are at it again, but thank goodness there has been no one killed this year, although at the beginning of the season two bird hunters were shot up fairly painfully.

On the opening day of deer season somebody shot a cow elk in the Nanaimo area, and conservation officers are still looking for the culprit. The same thing happened last year. Of course there can be no excuse for shooting an elk out of season, especially when it is a cow elk and it is a bucks only season for deer.

On Sunday one of the checkers at the Victoria Fish and Game Club manned access gate to Nanaimo River Camp area shot MacMillan and Bloodel camp manager John Westholm's dog, mistaking the 75 per cent wolf Siberian Husky dog for a wild wolf.

This might have been excusable out in the woods, but this shooter wasn't many yards from a sign which outlawed shooting within one-quarter mile of the camp area. Access to these areas has been hard won and this particular area was one of the friendliest. Trigger happy hunters don't help to keep and extend the access program.

devastating attacking unit made a mistake in selecting that shattered opposition defense last season. Fulham's master tactician, Johnny Haynes, who was injured, was sadly missed in the return against Luxembourg but it was evident that England is going to have to search hard to find a replacement for sharpshooting Graves.

Ray Pointer of Burnley, at centre forward and Denis Violet of Manchester United and Johnny Penham of Sheffield Wednesday at the two inside positions failed to fill the gap against Luxembourg.

It was old standby Bobby Charlton of Manchester United who supplied what punch there was with a two-goal effort. But even his two booming goals could not save England from a humiliating barrage of jeers from impatient spectators expecting a lot more for their money.

The selectors dropped Violet and Penham at this week's "home" international against Wales, recalling John Connelly at outside right and switching Bryan Douglas from the wing to inside right to replace Penham.

But their biggest task is finding a potent forward line for the return match against Portugal at Wembley later this month. England, which drew with Portugal last season at Lisbon, must win this time to qualify as one of the 16 teams for the World Cup tournament.

England can't count on Graves for World Cup action although Milan has promised that the English star would be made available if possible. And without Graves or a goal-poaching type like him to finish off the passes supplied by Haynes, England is just another international side.

Greaves' flight to Italy, however, has caused giant-sized headaches on a number of other fronts. His old club, Chelsea, is floundering at the bottom of the first division and one of England's senior managers, Ted Drake, has parted company with the team he guided to a division championship six years ago.

Drake, a one-time England centre-forward, left Chelsea with six years of a 10-year contract still to run and was replaced temporarily by tough little ex-Scottish international Tommy Docherty. But Drake, who left out of it earlier by almost $50,000 paid out by Chelsea as compensation.

TWO FACTS The future of Greaves himself is in doubt. Since several months ago, two hard facts have emerged from a welter of rumors circulating in Italy and Britain: Greaves is desperately unhappy in a strange land that offers a language barrier and a vastly different style of play to the bewildered Londoner; Milan officials are far from happy with Greaves' performances, publicly admitting they CINCINNATI (CP) — A year ago Johnny Blanchard was willing to walk out on New York Yankees and quit taking coach Jim Hegan off baseball because he felt he wasn't being treated fairly. The same Johnny Blanchard, unwillingly accepted congratulations as a batting star in the Yankees' world series triumph over Cincinnati Reds.

On an August day in 1960 Blanchard learned that with Yogi Berra and Elton Howard. "Look at the lineup card," Hegan said. Blanchard's name was on it. Blanchard caught regularly the rest of the year. He appeared in 33 games, hit four home runs and batted .342.

"I never asked Hegan about it and he never has mentioned it to me. But I feel he had something to do with my getting the chance. He's that kind of a guy. I'd do anything he asked me. I'd go out and bust a gut for him."

Houk succeeded Stengel as manager and Blanchard saw more action this season. As a catcher and outfielder he batted .305 and slammed 21 home runs in 94 games. Seven of the homers, including four in a pinch-hit role, won or tied games in the final three innings.

"The next day, as I was leaving for Yankee Stadium, she cautioned me: 'Remember, we need the money.'"

Blanchard was met at the stadium by Houk.

Old Style WATER. It, too, has distinction!

The clear, sparkling water of British Columbia is a brewing ingredient unequalled in Canada. Our original recipe calls distinctly for this pure mountain water. Blended in our brewing kettle with hops and barley, its goodness comes to life. Then, finally, in our ageing cellars the brew slowly matures into the brilliant golden colour and the supreme flavour that is Old Style. Fortunately, this traditional manner of brewing does not go unnoticed—as evidenced by the many people who prefer Old Style.

CHICO MARX
... dies at 70

LONDON—A parakeet belonging to elder statesman Sir Winston Churchill is being disciplined by one of Britain's toughest retired soldiers—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

The bird, a gift from Greek shipowner Aristotelis Onassis, was handed over to Montgomery because it bites.

Montgomery's method of training, it was reported, was to "give it a good swipe every time it does it." The bird is reported to be much tamer already.

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy personally approved the stand of his brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in resigning from an exclusive Washington club which refuses admittance to Negroes.

VANDALIA, Ill. — Wade Head, 32, took out the garbage last night and never came back. He was serving a one-year term for petty larceny at the Illinois state penal farm.

LONDON—Ingrid Bergman has cut her long blonde hair. "I got tired of it being long," the actress told reporters. "I like it much better now. It's more manageable."

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Chico Marx, glib, bushy-haired piano player of the Marx Brothers comedy team, died at his home of an apparent heart attack. He was 70.

LONDON—Anglican Bishop Dr. Mervyn Mackwood defined a psychiatrist as a "man who goes to the Folies Bergere and looks at the audience."

WOKINGHAM, England—A speeding charge against Mrs. Joan Glips was dismissed when she explained she was rushing her pregnant Pekingese to a veterinarian for an emergency caesarian operation.

DUBLIN — Sean Lemass, leader of the majority party in Parliament, was re-elected premier.

Lemass' Fianna Fail party lost its overall majority in the elections, but remained the largest party.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Jazz trumpeter Dizzy Gillespie charged he has been denied access to a swimming pool in a downtown Kansas City hotel because he is a Negro.

OTTAWA — Finnish President Urho Kekkonen rounded out the social side of his visit to the Canadian capital as guest of honor at a glittering state dinner and reception.

VANCOUVER — Paul McCullough, 22, of Vancouver, charged with attempted murder of Joseph Costello last Feb. 21, was found not guilty by reason of insanity.

FORT ERIE, Ont. — Mrs. Mary Raj, 21, of Fort Erie, and her 18-month-old son, Steven, were trapped in a car and drowned when the vehicle plunged off a dock into about 14 feet of water.

VANCOUVER—Milton Gonzalez, a 65-year-old city lawyer, was charged with conspiracy in the illegal entry of Chinese into Canada. Bail was set at $1,000.

Homes Feared Destroyed In Island Eruptions

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Two new volcanic cones erupted on Tristan Da Cunha Island yesterday. The 266 islanders who fled Tuesday feared their homes have been destroyed.

PICKED UP — The island's two fishing boats reported the new eruptions on the slopes of the 6,700-foot crater that dominates Tristan Da Cunha. All the islanders left in the boats when the crater, long extinct, began rumbling and spewing smoke and lava.

The Dutch ship Tjasaadane, which had been scheduled to call at the island, radioed it was taking the islanders on board and will land them at Cape Town.

DAMAGE FEARED — Most of them spent the night huddled on desolate Nightingale Island, 20 miles from the volcano. The old and infirm remained aboard the fishing boats.

It was feared the new eruptions caused widespread damage on the British island. Residents had to leave their belongings, livestock and pets behind.

U.K. Frees But Reds 'Shackle'

BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP) — Retiring colonial secretary Iain Macleod said Wednesday Britain has freed 600,000 persons from colonial rule since the Second World War while Russia has put 100,000,000 into shackles.

Macleod, who ended two years as colonial secretary when he was made leader of the ruling Conservative party in the House of Commons and party chairman earlier this week, made his statement to the annual Conservative conference.

West Berlin Police Move Denied in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A United States spokesman denied yesterday that the West plans to send West German police into West Berlin, and said an East German protest against the alleged plan would not be accepted by the Western powers.

'AGGRESSION' WARNING — The transport of such reinforcements by air or surface routes would be considered aggression, the Communists said and would be dealt with accordingly.

State department press officer Lincoln White said East German authorities had "again jumped the gun and are seeking to exploit propagandistically a development that has not occurred."

TROOPS ALERTED — In a routine practice alert, 1,000 American troops rushed through the streets of West Berlin Wednesday morning to test their operational readiness.

The exercise was staged amid allied reports that some 300,000 Soviet, East German, Polish and Czech troops of the Warsaw Pact are holding war manoeuvres in East Germany.

Arab Dream Threatens Nasser

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Thurs., Oct. 12, 1961 15

By PETER WORTHINGTON
Telegram News Service

Syria's divorce from Egypt after 3½ years of uneasy wedded bliss, is forcing President Nasser to pay a high alimony of prestige and power.

And the breakaway may mark the beginning of a new Arab alliance—a sudden revival of an elusive dream of the past.

It is the Fertile Crescent dream.

In 1916 old King Hussein of Trans-Jordan visualized an Arab empire centred on the "fertile crescent" countries of Jordan, Lebanon, Syria and Iraq.

But the misty mirage never materialized, though it kept re-occurring.

The Fertile Crescent is the fringe of fertile land between mountains and the desert, hooking from the eastern Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf.

Though Britain tentatively approved the plan after the First World War, Saudi Arabia and Egypt fought the idea with subversion and propaganda. They feared being overshadowed by an upstart empire dominated by Hashimites.

PRESIDENT NASSER
... more grey hairs

Now, through the catalyst of rebellion in Syria, a Fertile Crescent alliance is not only possible, but probable.

And Nasser has good reason to grow more grey hairs.

As well as being a traditional breeding place for plots and intrigues, Syria has in the past been a leader in Arab nationalism.

It is also the key country in the Fertile Crescent plan; its frontiers touch all the countries concerned.

Such an arrangement would bolster struggling Jordan, suspicious Iraq and shaky Syria in their individual stands against Nasser. Lebanon would not likely join the combine—not yet anyway.

Was Syria justified in breaking from the United Arab Republic?

Was Nasser simply an ambitious tyrant who tried to quench his thirst for power by exploiting Syria and Syrians? Critics of the wily Egyptian will say yes, but truth is seldom so clear cut.

Contrary to popular opinion the much-maligned Nasser did not "seize" Syria to create the U.A.R. in 1958.

Syrian "moderates" (a relative term in the Mideast) asked Nasser to take over their country and thus prevent imminent Communist coup.

The formation of the U.A.R. was a prestige tassel to Nasser's fez—but it was also a crown of thorny problems.

Egypt is far more advanced industrially than Syria, but it also has greater poverty—or had!

'Fertile Crescent' Empire Would Freeze Out Egypt

The prosperous merchants and landowners of Syria never had confidence in the U.A.R., and doggedly refused to invest in the country. Foreign investors were even more leery.

Despite a prohibitive network of laws, Syrian capital trickled and gushed to banks in Beirut and Switzerland.

The Syrian economy never got off the ground.

But what probably toppled Nasser was not what he DID, but what nature DIDN'T do.

Syria is almost exclusively an agricultural country. Three years of drought and crop failure since 1958 have turned want into need... misfortune into tragedy.

And Nasser and his United Arab Republic was blamed.

Nasser himself called the U.A.R.'s collapse "worse than Suez." And for him, in long range terms, it could be.

The "mystique" that is Nasser survived Suez. Fortunately for him Britain and France got both left feet into the mess begun by Israel, and provided a face-saving propaganda excuse for Egyptian ineptness.

Nasser's influence, that extends in varying degrees from Morocco to Baghdad, is now in danger of vaporizing.

And the Fertile Crescent combine could replace it.

In the past the Syria-Jordan-Lebanon-Iraq alliance failed because each country concerned felt one of the others was trying to win the whole kitty and dominate the "empire"—and this assessment was probably correct.

Syrians are among the most emotional, volatile, suspicious, and impulsive of Arabs.

From 1949 to 1958 there were half a dozen major coups d'état and countless minor revolts in Syria. They seemed to copy the unstable politics of France, from whom they won independence in 1946.

Anti-Nasser "experts" are now predicting the end of Nasser.

But as the record shows, Nasser is at his political best when his back is to the wall and his regime in danger.

Arab empire dream centres on "Fertile Crescent" countries of Jordan, Lebanon, Syria and Iraq.

Light Dawned on Hunters

TERRACE, B.C. (CP)—The case of the luminous deer came to light here Wednesday.

Game conservation officer Don Stewart told the story of two hunters who shot their limit on the Queen Charlotte Islands but when they got the meat home found it glowed in the dark.

Thinking the meat to be radioactive they got Stewart on the case. He sent a rib section to Dr. Ian MacTaggart Cowan, University of British Columbia naturalist.

The naturalist took little time to clear up the mystery. He said the luminous glow was caused by a rare bacteria buildup in the meat and bones of the animals.

It did not harm the game, he reported.

The hunters stored the deer away—in a well-lit deep-freeze.

Red Ensign Favored

SASKATOON (CP)—The Saskatchewan command of the Royal Canadian Legion has gone on record as favoring the Red Ensign as Canada's national flag. A previous motion had stressed the need for a national flag but had not said it should be the Red Ensign.

Bus Driver Cleared Of Lamont Tragedy

EDMONTON (CP)—Frank Budney, 31-year-old bus driver, was acquitted Wednesday in Supreme Court on a charge of criminal negligence.

He was the driver of a school bus which was rammed by a fast-moving freight train last November at Lamont, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton. Seventeen high school students were killed, Budney and 22 other students were injured.

Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain said the evidence satisfied him that Budney stopped his bus on the incline approach to the railway tracks.

Budney, he said, "may have exercised a degree of care that, crossing last Nov. 23, Budney was less than it should have been in his failure to arise day trial.

Mr. Justice Milvain suggested that legislators give "serious thought" to forming a set of clearly-defined regulations to control the operation of school buses.

He said there should be "proper methods of licensing one student on the bus, testing that the bus did not stop long" to avoid completely the type of Lamont tragedy.

Accused Dies in Jail 'Medicine Taken Away'

MONTREAL (UPI)—A tenebrous in the $185,000 Have-died of a heart attack after he was deprived of vital medicine at Peterborough, Ont. jail.

Raymond Daoust claimed his client, Marcel Lemieux, 35, died of a heart attack after he was deprived of vital medicine at Peterborough, Ont. jail.

Daoust said his client had been given doctor's orders "never to be without nitroglycerine pills."

"On the eve of his death I talked to Lemieux, who complained that his medicine, on the order of the jailer of police had been placed beyond his reach in a locked cupboard," the statement said.

Second Plane Crash

Peace River Plunge Takes Pilot's Life

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. In a crash 70 miles west of here. A third man, Tom Humble, escaped with his life.

The pilot was killed but a passenger escaped with apparently slight injuries late Wednesday in the crash of a float-equipped Stinson plane in the Peace River northeast of here.

Dead is pilot Dan (Danny) Yager, 38, of Fort Nelson. His passenger, Donald Slack of Calgary was brought to hospital here for examination.

It was the second fatal plane crash in this area since last week. Walter Murphy, editor of the Dawson Creek Star and pilot Ron McAuliffe died

Cities Choking Fruit Farms

HALIFAX (CP) — Urban sprawl threatens to engulf two of Canada's three best fruit-growing areas, the Community Planning Association of Canada was told Wednesday.

The danger is greatest in Ontario's Niagara Peninsula, less severe in the lower Fraser Valley of B.C. and non-existent in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley.

Norman Pearson, planning director for Burlington, Ont., said that in the 1951-56 period 1,800 acres of irreplaceable Niagara fruit land was lost to urban expansion.

In 1954-58, 60 per cent of urban growth was on fruit land.

Mr. Pearson suggested strict provincial control over urban sprawl, "a more serious waste of good farm land than solid urban growth." He also urged special taxation to relieve the pressure of high taxes on farm land and called for new national and provincial land policies.

P. R. U. Stratton of Vancouver, a CPAC national councillor, said loss of land in the Fraser Valley has been limited to one or two areas. He urged tax concessions for farmers to encourage them to retain their land in crop production. He said a regional planning authority with power to impose over-all zoning is the only certain safeguard against need-less loss of farmland.

Advertisers 'Using' School Television

PENTICTON (CP) — C. E. Clay, district school superintendent, Tuesday night told school trustees that a proposed Kelowna television program involving teams of school children in spelling bees, was merely a "method of using the schools to promote sales of merchandise by advertising."

Speedy Hay Machine Slashes Labor Costs

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd. announced Wednesday it has acquired world manufacturing rights to a new haymaking invention.

Rights to the machine were purchased from Vernon Lundell of the Lundell Manufacturing Co. Inc., Cherokee, Iowa.

The machine compresses hay into dense wafers about two feet by about two feet and creates a new system whereby hay can be cut, cured, packaged, loaded, stored and fed completely by mechanical means.

The company says labor and production costs involved in harvesting hay can be slashed with the new machine. It claims the new machine can reduce man hours by 25 to 40 per cent per ton harvested and tractor hours by 28 to 40 per cent.

Higher Pay Sought For Nurses

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba nurses are seeking raises ranging from $15 to $25 a month, to bring their basic monthly salary to $300, it was announced Tuesday.

The request has been made by the Manitoba Association of Registered Nurses to hospital administrations.

It asks that the basic salary of Manitoba's 3,712 registered nurses be raised by $15 and that the salary of graduate nurses be increased by $25. The nurses' last raise was in January, 1961.

Dr. L. O. Bradley, administrator of Winnipeg General Hospital, said the request will likely meet opposition.

Football Fans Decide to Stay

VIENNA (Reuters) — Four Hungarians who came here to watch their national soccer team play Austria have requested political asylum, it was reported.

DODGE is a new lean breed of car

DODGE WILL OUT-RUN, OUT-ECONOMIZE MOST ANY CAR AROUND!

MORE ACTION, LESS DEAD WEIGHT. Dead weight holds a car back. Makes it eat gas. Dodge has cut dead weight to a minimum. The Dart automatic transmission is a good example. It's stronger, more efficient, has an aluminum case. It weighs 60 pounds less. Dead weight reductions like this are why you get quicker acceleration using less gas in a 1962 Dodge. EASY HANDLING.

The easiest ever. Because of less dead weight on front wheels and a new low-friction steering gear. You get action and economy in the same automobile. It goes twice as far between oil changes, drives 32,000 miles between grease jobs. ITS BRAKES ADJUST THEMSELVES AUTOMATICALLY. Unquestionably, this new lean breed of Dodge is a very hot automobile indeed.

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1961

'Citizens' Vote Full Support To Precinct Plan

A "citizens' meeting" of businessmen, architects and property owners last night voted unanimously in favor of a detailed plan of zoning amendments aimed at turning the Cathedral Hill civic precinct proposal into reality.

Saanich Saves $23,000

Saanich had lopped nearly $23,000 from the original $237,744 low tender price for the new municipal police and fire headquarters by eliminating such items as cell bars of "hack-saw-resistant stainless steel."

Coun. Joseph Casey told council last night: "If they must have shiny bars, we'll have ordinary steel chrome."

SPECIFIED UNITS

He said further economies were obtained by replacing specified cell units from Eastern Canada with cheaper locally-made units.

With an estimated $50,000 in winter works grants, the cuts so far brought the total cost to local taxpayers to about $200,000, a figure council found satisfactory.

ALL TOO HIGH

The special building committee last week ruled all bids "too high" and asked the architect to discuss cuts with the low-bidding firm.

Reeve George Chatterton said the contract will probably be signed next week and an immediate start made on construction.

Sign Law Comes Up Next Week

Amendments to Victoria's sign bylaw, to bring it into line with what city council has been doing, will be considered next week.

The proposed amendments, which set out definitely what signs will be allowed in the area around the Empress Hotel, will be discussed by public works committee Tuesday.

When the bylaw was adopted about a year ago, council left itself authority to decide what signs, if any, would be permitted.

Since then it has allowed three large free-standing signs and one fascia sign.

Help Golf Course Victoria Asked

Saanich decided last night to invite Victoria to participate in joint development of a public golf course at Elk Beaver Lake.

Coun. Leslie Patterson suggested city council be given the opportunity of participating in the venture before Saanich seeks a long-term lease on the lake property to develop its own golf course.

The proposal will be made at a meeting Monday at City Hall.

The property is owned by the city and jointly operated as a park by Victoria and Saanich.

Reeve George Chatterton said if the city isn't interested in a joint operation—"I'm inclined to think it would be too complicated"—Saanich must seek a 40-year lease.

Steps could be taken then to determine accurate cost and a bylaw could be put to authorize borrowing the funds.

London Dynasty Vanishing

Pearly Royalty Charms City

Two London pearlys demonstrated here last night there is more than the accent and a couple of dropped "a's" when it comes to mangling English.

The demonstration was so thorough it sent a little old lady of 80 home crying tears of nostalgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tinsley, the King and Queen of London's Pearlys, here to help Canadian Pacific Airlines celebrate the forthcoming inauguration of the line's service linking western Canada with London, charmed Victoria in a one-day visit.

Resplendent in traditional pearly-button costumes, they lunched at the Hudson's Bay Co., signed autographs, chatted and lectured the Colonist staff on the vagaries of the rhyming slang of London's costermongers.

An elderly Victoria woman, fully filled with remembrance of a childhood in London that she wept when she had to leave them.

Mr. Tinsley, who inherited the title of Pearly King of Southwark from his father and now reigns as Pearly King of all London, says the pearly dynasty will soon vanish from the London scene.

"The kids, y'know," he said. "Wot wif rock 'n' roll, the telly and all the fun they gets dropped in their lap. 'fore you can say Bob's your uncle and Fanny's your aunt, they don't have to take up the old game."

There was a time when London had a pearly population of more than 250, but changing times and habits have whittled them down to about 50, says Mr. Tinsley.

"Say something in Pearly," someone urged.

"Well now, like I was telling this ol' dear today. Had a bull and cow (rowl) wif me struggle and strife (twice). She told me she was browned off, I decided on a bowl of chalk (walk). So I went an' got me bow an' arrow (barrow).

"Lyer, I comes 'ome to see 'ow the old dutch was . . .

Mr. Tinsley explained Pearlys were created by costermongers as a means of raising funds for charities.

"Our main charity is the old folks. We raise enough to take about two busloads to the shore every year. We give 'em a good tea, then on to the local for a bit of 'Knees Up Mother Brown' until the guv'nor chucks us out at 10.30."

PEARLIES PRIMP FOR VICTORIA

Streets to Sparkle With Christmas Trees

Downtown Victoria will be a "fairytale" in December with more than 100 lighted Christmas trees lining the streets, a Chamber of Commerce spokesman said last night.

Some 60 trees were used last year experimentally and they were so popular with merchants, who pay all costs, that the display has had to be increased.

"We are starting early this year," the spokesman said. "Last year many merchants were unable to take part because there was a limited time."

Illegal One Way, Uncouth the Other

Illegal but ladylike way for a girl in a skirt to cope with a motorcycle is demonstrated by Adele Kruger, behind Neil Laing. Legal—and infinitely safer—method falls short of finishing-school standards. In city police court yesterday, Work Point motorcyclist Alfred Napierala was fined $15 for allowing his companion to ride sidesaddle.—(Colonist photo.)

New Zoning

High-Rise Blocks Bring In Capital

Victoria's new zoning regulation for high-rise apartments is credited with causing a flow of investment capital into the city.

This comment came from W. P. Paterson, planning officer for the District of West Vancouver, in a letter to city planner Roderick Clark.

Mr. Paterson said West Vancouver's municipal assessor, J. Y. Gardner, reported the regulation has caused a boom in construction of apartment buildings.

A copy of the zoning bylaw, which West Vancouver is anxious to copy, has been sent to Mr. Paterson.

A building permit for Victoria's second high-rise $970,000 apartment was issued yesterday.

Two other high-rise apartments are planned, for $1,500,000 each.

Not Enough Time

Civil Defence Scraps Flight from Hospitals

Most Patients to Stay With Skeleton Staffs

Civil defence organizers have scrapped plans for the large-scale evacuation of city hospital patients in the event of a nuclear attack. It was learned yesterday.

Officials now believe there would be insufficient warning time to allow them to put their originally-planned total evacuation scheme into effect.

Under a new plan, drafted

by the provincial health department, all patients who can be moved will be discharged into the care of relatives and friends and left to their own devices in escaping from the target area.

The majority of doctors, nurses and other hospital staff will also leave as soon as the siren sound, to disperse with their own families.

HOPE FOR BEST

Skeleton staffs will move all the remaining patients to shelter in hospital basements or on lower floors and hope for the best.

Steps will be taken to try to protect these people from radio-active fallout.

The new plan reverses a policy decision made just over a year ago which called for the complete evacuation of hospital staff and patients by car, bus and train.

TWO BIG CITIES

The new scheme applies to hospitals in both Victoria and Vancouver.

It has been officially estimated Victoria area hospitals and nursing homes have a total patient capacity of 2,275 and staff of 1,533.

Originally the patients and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital were to have been evacuated to Nanaimo High School and Royal Jubilee Hospital to Duncan Senior High School.

NANAIMO HOSPITAL: Veterans' Hospital site was the Indian Hospital at Nanaimo, Royal Canadian Navy Hospital to Port Alberni Junior-Senior High School and nursing home patients to Lady Smith and Chelmsford High Schools.

Medical staff members who do manage to escape from the target area are to make their way to these destinations so they can help in setting up improvised hospitals or staffing advanced treatment centres.

FRED HAWES

Seen In Passing

Fred Hawes, captain of a team canvassing industries for the United Appeal, emphasizing that the drive must be a success. (He and his wife, Alys, who live at 688 Falkland Road, have two sons, Roland, a student at UBC, and Merlin, a salesman for a soap company. Mr. Hawes, an Oak Bay councillor, enjoys fishing and hunting in his spare time) . . . Ken Holding conducting a business transaction . . . Gordon Downey out for a drive along Douglas Street . . . Phyl Peterson crossing the street, bucket in hand . . . Ralph Schmidt making a fourth at bridge . . . Tom Crowther on his way to a show . . . John Oster watching his wife curl her first game . . . Caron Bellagente convinced that Cowichan Bay fishing isn't what it used to be . . . Dick Fisher unhappy about what happened in the world series . . . J. C. Fox complaining about Cadboro Bay bus service.

Saanich Youth Sent to Oakalla For Attempt to Murder Girl

Sentence of 15 months definite and 18 indefinite in the young offenders' unit of Oakalla was imposed in Assize Court yesterday on Peter Tachirach, 16, of Saanich, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of attempted murder. Charges followed an incident last winter in which a neighboring girl suffered a stab wound and was struck over the head with a piece of wood.

An Assize Court jury early this month ruled the boy fit to stand trial and he pleaded guilty and was remanded to yesterday for sentence.

To the sentence Mr. Justice T. W. Brown added a recommendation to the attorney-general's department:

"That any transfer be made at the earliest possible moment to effect placing (the prisoner) where the best treatment and rehabilitation were likely more quickly to follow."

Sleepy-Time Guy Amazes Magistrate

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

HITLER AND YAWN: Character appearing in city police court this week gave out with a wide yawn while being spoken to by Magistrate William Ostler.

"I hope we're not keeping you up unnecessarily?" commented Mr. Ostler.

"Oh, no, your worship," replied the accused.

A few minutes later and there they were again—two huge yawns.

Magistrate Ostler looked at him for a full minute in silence, shook his head and then remarked: "You're about the sleepiest man I think I've ever seen!"

LA RONDE: City resident wanted to send a parcel to a patient at the Tranquille mental institution so phoned up the general office of the provincial health department for the right address.

Whoever answered referred her to the office of Health Minister Eric Martin. The call was in turn referred to Provincial Secretary Wesley Macdonald.

The call in turn referred the call to the hospital administration branch which in turn referred the call to the general office of the health department.

ment—the place where the first call was made. Believe it or not, they then gave out the address.

IN TUNE: Fellow we know put up a new television aerial the other day and carefully lined it up in the same direction as his neighbors' antennas were pointing.

His reception was terrible. In a blind rage he went back up to the roof, gave the aerial a half turn to the south and went back to see if things had improved. They had. Every channel was coming in fine.

This intelligence seeped out into the neighborhood. Within a few days all the other aerials were pointing in the same direction as the new one.

REDUCED TO CLEAR: That police department which was not too helpful to the young gal who was bothered by indecent phone calls was

Oak Bay's. Police in other municipalities say they take a different view and are only too happy to try to catch the guilty parties. . . . Premier Bennett is getting so many visitors these days that he's commandeered an office next door to his for a special reception room. . . . CCF Leader Robert Strachan says he's more sure than ever that the government's action in taking over the B.C. Electric will lead to its defeat at the next election. He bases his opinion on public reaction he saw on a recent trip around the province.

SIGN IN PASSING: Quite a few posters urging Equimantal-Saanich residents to vote for Sacred George Maha are still marling the countryside around here. The by-election was months ago. Maybe the Saanich are going to leave them there for the next federal election.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM: A special three-hour telecast on anti-Communism will be shown over a Seattle station next week. The event is being staged by the California School of Anti-Communism—an organization which describes itself as "non-political, non-religious, and non-partisan!"

Word has it that Premier Bennett has been trying to interest Vancouver newspaperman Hal Dornan in taking over as his new executive assistant. The job became vacant as a result of the resignation of Dan Ekman. . . . Attorney-General Robert Bennett had a succinct answer when reporters asked him to reply to criticisms levelled by former B.C. Supreme Court judge A. M. Macdonald: "I never comment on remarks by judges on or off the bench."

INSTANT ITEM: Those who sow their wild oats must pray for a crop failure.

London's Top Designers Not Outshone by Paris

By MISS LONDON

LONDON — After the ballyhoo of the Paris autumn style show had died, a second look was taken at the London Line. The autumn and winter styles of the top designers in the two fashion centers seemed to be much the same, not even excepting the diagonal theme. It was supposedly a Paris, not a London idea, but several of the top U.K. designers had used it earlier to good effect. It is easy to see what had been accepted from either the London or Paris shows, because the better London shops are quick to reflect anything new. All are filled with new things for autumn and winter.

On the whole, the London designers felt they had not been overshadowed by the Paris couturiers, and had shown the way in ingenious use of fine British fabrics.

THE FITTED LINE

The slightly more fitting line is definitely one that has been accepted. Suits, mainly collarless, have the gently, concave tops that most designers featured but there is still a plentiful supply of the straight topped variety. Skirts, whether to suits or as separates, have plenty of swing to them. Pleats ranging from small to large in both width and length, so far only a few having the flared cut hemline. I haven't seen many with the contrasting insets used by some of the Paris couturiers, but it is a fashion that might well catch on with the younger set.

RICH FABRICS

The thick, heavy look for coats, so popular in the shows, is predominant — really winterish looking this year — in hairy tweeds.

This thick look continues in wool sweaters too — huge, chunky, marvellous efforts with big collars.

Tweeds are obviously the number one choice in coat materials and skirts are often tweedish too in huge dark check designs.

Soft, fine British woollens, easier to arrange into drapes and diagonal effects, are the most frequently used for dresses.

Materials that contrast with one another have not caught on.

THE BAGING COLORS

Outside of Hartnell, who made black the color-backbone of his autumn-winter collection, the London designers went in for everything from exotic red to acid yellows and blazing cerise to the Hardy Amies' wonderful variations in brown. Rich shades in brown were in many collections.

Plum red is the "big" color, ranging from the lighter amber fire to the deep orlane, with mustard a hot second. These two colors were often used together in the recent shows and very attractively so.

Clove carnation is the new color from the accessory side. This color has really been accepted in quite large supplies by most accessory dealers — especially for shoes. Black patent and deep brown are also popular in the shoe section and come in a good selection of chisels with varying heel heights.

Stibel Ensemble

This Victor Stibel suit is in white herringbone wool with the jacket casual. Over it, the loose topcoat is in double-faced charcoal British wool with the reverse in large red and white checks.

British Camel Coat

A short camel coat with traditional raglan shoulders, displayed by Britain's top male model. All accessories claim the British look.

diagonal the password in high fashion Paris, but London's couturiers declared it only echoed the body-conscious theme of the London Line.

Ronald Paterson featured the slanting look very successfully. With softly figure-emphasizing lines, his suits had short jackets, with slim skirts that flared gently at the hem. Designer of the Duchess of Kent's wedding dress, John Cavanagh was another cosier to use the diagonal line in his collection. Dresses had lowered slanting waistlines, coats fastened diagonally down the front, often with fur trimming to accentuate. In suits there were short jackets, straight fronts and skirts that flared and swirled. A pyramid shape prevailed throughout the coats, hemlines being very wide.

On a basic silhouette of a long, body-conscious line, Hardy Amies used fur and embroidery with discerning taste. His jackets were quite long, curving in at the front and either straight or slightly rounded at the back. Remaining short in length, skirts were made easy to move in by the wide hems. Coats had a fitted line at front, the backs hanging straight.

Norman Hartnell presented his customary elegant and sophisticated collection for Winter 1961. He concentrated a little more on day wear and a little less on grand ball gowns. The general theme was towards a more fitting shape but there was no definite different fashion line throughout. Suits were plain and simple with matching topcoats, all in colorful tweeds.

Lachasse's Large-Collared Suit

The diagonal cut of this Lachasse suit in a green and grey British wool was typical of his winter collection. It is called the "Frontenac" suit, and was photographed in the Victoria and Albert Museum. — (British Woollens photo.)

Alberni Wedding Of Interest Here

Three attendants gowned in blue accompanied Miss Frances Mary Kovach into All Saints' Anglican Church in Alberni recently for her marriage to Mr. Norman Edward Dawson.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Violet Kovach, and little flower girls, Susan and Linda Smood wore charming gowns to complement the bride's ensemble. Mrs. Kovach wore blue satin complemented with a bouquet of pink roses and a blue French rose headpiece. Flower girls wore deep blue feathered frocks with cummerbunds. They carried pale pink miniature roses and wore bow headpieces.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Carlson, 1106 Michigan Street, Alberni, was charming in a white satin princess line gown fashioned with long lily point sleeves and oval neckline. A pearl and rhinestone crown held her fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Dawson, Victoria, had his brother-in-law, Mr. Edward Powell as best man. Ushers were Mr. Harry Dawson, the groom's brother, and Mr. Frank Hastings.

Rev. John Frith officiated. After a reception at The Pose Bank, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon on the Island, the bride wearing a plum colored coat and dress and plum and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson will live at Westview Manor in New Westminster.

Victorians at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. Cosh, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Noakes, Mrs. J. Dawson, Mr. N. E. Dawson, Mr. J. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Chalke and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. E. Powell and Mrs. G. Nufeld.

VICTORIA

Victoria Women's Institute will hold a social Friday, Oct. 13, at 2 p.m. in the small Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street. There will be a display of Christmas gifts, and tea will be served.

First Lady Leading Fashion Influence

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the sad things about being first lady is that you can't trot down to the department store when you feel like it. It creates such a hubbub that Mrs. Kennedy has to get her secretary to go to New York and buy her dresses when she sees one she likes, according to a prominent dress designer.

"It's an agonizing experience for a young lady like Mrs. Kennedy who likes to shop not to be able to go into the stores," said Mollie Parnis, who designed Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's clothes.

"The first lady cannot get around and go in and out of stores. She must depend on someone else."

Never, said the New York designer, has there been such a fashion influence in the White House.

She said Mrs. Kennedy is "naturally a clothes horse."

"She looks good in anything," the designer added. She said the first lady can wear bathing suits, slacks and kerchiefs on her head and look right.

"That's why the president picked her, I guess," she said.

Mrs. Eisenhower was "clothes conscious," the designer said, "but she had many more problems."

She said Mrs. Eisenhower didn't have as much money as Mrs. Kennedy and she had a figure problem.

However, the New York designer said it was not fair to compare the two women.

"There's a big difference between 30 and 60," she pointed out.

Pretty Fall Wedding In St. Mark's Church

Fall flowers banked the altar in St. Mark's Anglican Church and white rosebuds decorated guests' pews for the recent evening ceremony in which Miss Carolyn E. Williams, daughter of CPO and Mrs. Richard Williams, 3268 Bellevue Road, became the bride of Mr. Donald J. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Patterson, 1503 Charlton Road. Canon Willis officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was escorted up the aisle by her father who gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown of white chiffon was fashioned with a full, hooped skirt applied with white lace and bows, and the bodice had a tracery of iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her chapel veil floated from a coronet of rhinestones and seed pearls. Her bouquet was of red roses and stephanotis.

For something "old, borrowed and blue," she wore a white and blue crystal necklace belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Williams.

Mrs. Derick Stone, matron of honor, was in violet peau de sole, and bridesmaids, Miss Donna Sears and Miss Margaret Williams, the bride's cousins, wore coral and blue crystal charm taffeta and satin gowns, respectively. They carried white chrysanthemums and wore rhinestone tiaras, the bride's gifts.

The groom had his uncle, Mr. Derick Stone as best man. Ushers were Mr. Roy Birkett, Mr. Larry Patterson and Mr. Edward Williams.

A reception was held in Dockyard Recreation Hall, where a three-tier cake was cut by the newlyweds. Red and white candles and flowers decorated the table. Ed Williams, tone, brown and beige accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Leaving for a mainland honeymoon, the bride wore a beige wool suit with hat on Charlton Road.

Captivating little pizzettes are sure to please. The thin, crisp, biscuit-dough crust is set off with a scrumptious combination of chopped tomatoes, mushrooms and bacon crowned with a golden layer of cheese.

Many Toppings For Pizzettes

One cookbook describes pizza as "robust food to go with a corresponding appetite." This is certainly true of a genuine pizza, with its substantial bread-dough crust and rich, flavorful topping.

In Italy, where pizzerias (taverns specializing in pizzas) originated, different sections of the country have developed different kinds of this primitive pie. The true Roman pizza is made with onions and oil but no tomato, while the crust of Neapolitan pizza is spread with tomatoes and Mozzarella cheese. Franciscan pizza has a garnish of mushrooms, ham, tomatoes and cheese, and others may be topped with mussels, black olives, or anchovies.

On this continent pizzas have proven to be so popular that many homemakers have become quite adept at making them. As in Italian homes, pastry, or biscuit dough is sometimes substituted for the bread dough, to make pizzas a little less robust. Also, pizzettes (individual pizzas) such as suggested below, have been found to be very acceptable to serve in place of sandwiches for lunch and at parties.

TWENTY-FOUR PIZZETTES
Biscuit dough, rolled thin (1/8").
4 slices side bacon.
1 pint (1/2 pound) mushrooms, sliced.
4 medium tomatoes, finely chopped.
1/2 cup coarsely grated Cheddar cheese.
1 teaspoon oregano.
Salt and pepper, oil, melted butter or margarine.
Cut thin biscuit dough in 3" rounds (24, using cookie cutter. Arrange on cookie sheet or in very shallow tart tins.

HOW TO STOP LOOKING OLDER THAN YOUR BIRTHDAYS

What makes a woman's face age prematurely—with crow's feet, little lines, roughness? The answer is skin dryness, a condition caused by harsh weather, overwashed rooms, low-fat diets, etc. If this is your problem, you need POND'S SKIN CREAM. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, starts to repair dry skin in just 10 minutes! Allantoin breaks off lifeless surface skin cells, opens the way for swift penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirty tissues far below. Carrot Custard Loaf Sounds Interesting Vegetable plates are a natural for October menus with the wide variety of delicious fresh vegetables available. However, a protein should be included in some form to help round out the meal. Carrot custard loaf helps to add this in the form of eggs and if one of the vegetables has a cheese sauce it helps still further.

Following is the recipe for Carrot Custard Ring or loaf if you have no ring mould. It is suggested by the Poultry Products Institute, which has tested this recipe, that this delicately colored and flavored custard goes equally well also with creamed eggs, turkey, or chicken.

CARROT CUSTARD LOAF

Three eggs, 1 1/4 cups milk, 2 1/2 grated raw carrot, 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon butter, melted.

Beat eggs slightly, add milk and strain. This removes the chalazae, the thick white cords of protein which hold the yolk in position in the shell. It is edible but usually becomes rather tough in a custard. Add carrots, seasonings and butter.

Line the bottom of well-greased ring mould with greased foil cut to fit bottom of pan. A loaf pan or round casserole may be used instead of ring. Carefully pour in mixture. Set mould in pan of hot water and cook in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 45 minutes or until set. A silver knife inserted into centre will come out clean when custard is cooked. Unmould on large chop

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Some close friends have a lovely home. We enjoy their company but it's gotten to the point that we hate to go over there because of the way they inflict their children on the guests.

Here's the routine: No sooner do we arrive than the 10-year-old has to recite the Gettysburg address plus three or four elocution pieces. Then the eight-year-old plays a 20-minute piano program. The six-year-old is "in the wings" in her ballet costume and we must watch The Dance of the Pussies Willows and her version of The Swan.

Last night it was 10 o'clock before they got the kids off stage so the adults could visit. My husband says he's not going to suffer through another such evening. I know we'll be invited again soon. What shall I say?—ENOUGHVILLE

Dear Enoughville: If they are close friends you should be able to level with the hostess. If you do, it will be a good test of the friendship. If they value your company they'll respect your husband's point of view and stash the kids before you arrive. If not, they'll interpret your candor as an insult and you won't be invited again.

Dear Ann: Our son is a medical student who is going to school four quarters a year so he won't "waste any time." He's an excellent scholar, hard-working and serious. He appreciates the sacrifices his father and I have made so he can enter this wonderful profession.

His girl friend has been making his life miserable. She is always mad at him because he can see her only two evenings a week and on Sunday afternoons. He becomes depressed because she bawls him out all the time for being such a bookworm. I'm afraid her nagging will interfere with his studies unless someone gives her a better understanding of what a young man must go through to become a doctor.

Do you think it would help if I phoned her and set her straight? I would be very nice and merely explain the facts. —MED STUDENT'S MOM

Dear Mom: Keep your oar out of those forbidden waters. When your son has had a gullet-full of this girl's selfish demands he'll give her the gate. Anything you say or do been caught faking claims. Strangely enough they wouldn't dream of short-changing the paper boy or putting an extra orange in the bag, but when dealing with an insurance company the rationalization is "Why not soak 'em? The company is rich." —HARTFORD, CONN.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "goes full" send the ANN LANDERS booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Centennial Projects Must Be Lasting

OTTAWA (UPI) — The federal government yesterday made provision for special projects undertaken by local communities across the nation as part of its $100,000,000 program to celebrate Canada's 100th birthday in 1967.

The basic principle underlying such projects is that they must be "lasting." Suggested items which could qualify included buildings, parks, concert halls, and the writing of books.

The total value of the grants which the federal government is prepared to make to works of such nature is not to exceed one dollar per capita of the population of the province in which they are to be located. Nor may the federal contribution exceed one-third of the estimated cost of the project.

A final stipulation is that the project must not be eligible for government assistance under any other legislation.

The federal government scheme was announced by Transport Minister Leon Balcer to a meeting here of the National Committee on the Centennial of Confederation.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the 10 provinces and was under the joint chairmanship of Balcer and Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean.

Balcer told the meeting that the federal government's plans for its own part in the centennial would be based on a budget of $100,000,000. He dealt at considerable length with the federal project already announced of purchasing properties on the east side of Sussex Drive in Ottawa and restoring the buildings to their appearance at the time of confederation.

Two Thefts Net Goods Worth $2,050

Steven Drapak, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to two charges of breaking, entering and theft, and two of theft involving goods, with a total value of about $2,050.

When prosecutor Angus Smith said there was a lengthy record in eastern Canada, Magistrate William Ostler remanded Drapak to Saturday morning for sentence.

All offences occurred Tuesday.

A considerable record of similar offences brought a four-month jail term for Charles Bland, no fixed address, when he pleaded guilty to stealing two shirts Tuesday from the T. Eaton Company store.

Adam Angus Milne of Sooke pleaded guilty in the same court to impaired driving, after being checked on Fisgard Street Tuesday evening. He was fined $250 and his licence suspended.

Two concurrent one-year jail terms were handed down to Ronald William Kolchinski, 1203 Blanshard, who earlier had pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft at the Health Centre, 1947 Cook, and to uttering a forged document—a food voucher.

"You are accumulating a very bad record... These are serious offences," Magistrate Ostler told the youth.

Are You Starving Your Husband Out Of A Promotion?

SIX MONTHS ago, a sales executive with an aggressive drive in the Northwest suddenly quit his job. The reason? He had been by-passed for a promotion he was qualified for. He never knew why he was by-passed. His employer might have termed it "Breakfast Starvation."

Far-fetched? Not at all. Studies show clearly how "Breakfast Starvation" can take a heavy toll on your chances for a happier life.

When breakfast is skipped or skimmed, work output is less, mental reactions become slower and slower reactions become slower and slower... and muscular fatigue increases. For a man morning let-down can be work, this morning handicap. The theory that the "coffee-break" adds the necessary morning stimulant is misleading. When breakfast is eaten, the coffee-break stimulant adds nothing to mental slowness. It falls far short of the benefits gained from the basic breakfast. What is the basic breakfast, this meal that is perhaps your biggest contribution to your husband's success?

Because hearty breakfasts are no longer needed generally, nutrition authorities have formulated a basic breakfast pattern consisting of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. This can be supplemented with other foods, such as eggs or meats but the basic breakfast provides the nutrition that modern workers, office as well as factory workers, need. The same is true for students. The experts also point out that omission of breakfast is no advantage in weight reduction. In fact, skipping breakfast is a detriment to successful healthful weight control.

These facts are important: when you eat an adequate breakfast, you can turn out more work during the morning hours, you are quicker in your reactions and do not tire as easily. Doesn't a basic breakfast, then, fit your family's needs? The Fisher Flouring Mills Company, makers of Zoom, the instant cooking whole wheat cereal, have made it easy for you to serve that all-important meal. If you have time for coffee, you have time for Zoom. It cooks instantly. And as for flavor, watch the eyes of your family light up when they taste Zoom. Be a regular Zoom family and zoom through your day.

Fisher's Zoom, the triple bonus cereal with its speed of preparation, delicious whole wheat flavor and all morning satisfaction, belongs in your morning routine. Zoom is your family's basic breakfast. Your first Zoom purchase may prove a new spurt to your husband's progress.

'Call Me Mr. Benn' Ex-Labor MP Says

TORONTO (CP)—Anthony Wedgwood Benn, the British Laborite who bears the title Viscount Stansgate under protest, is sure he will become a commoner again.

The 36-year-old politician—“please call me Mr. Benn”—indicated here Tuesday night that the British social setup will be altered eventually to allow freedom of choice between the peerage and the Commons. He was in Toronto for a CBC television appearance.

The former Labor MP for Bristol had to give up his seat in the Commons despite a long fight to shed the inherited title.

But he is convinced he'll win out eventually.

“There are in Britain too many hereditary or tribal customs that have too great an influence on the running of the country,” he said.

He also criticized Canada's system of non-titled senators

What effect will this summer's bulldozing for flood control of Goldstream, Demaniel Creek and Tugwell Creek have on the salmon spawning runs starting now?

Federal fisheries officials will for the next several weeks be keeping a special watch.

TALKS FIRST

The river clearing was undertaken by the parks branch and highways department after talks with fisheries officials.

“Not in all cases will the bulldozing benefit the fisheries. It was a case of using the gravel in the stream to benefit the most people,” a fisheries spokesman said. “We will have to see a spawning season and a winter to see if the fish benefit.”

NEVER FLOODS

At Goldstream the bulldozing was done because the highways and parks departments wish no recurrence of the severe floods last Jan. 15, which scattered ready-to-hatch salmon eggs over acres of flooded parkland.

The bulldozing didn't change the course of the river but did deepen the original stream. Fisheries officials said the gravel still is deep enough to provide adequate spawning beds.

POOLS GONE

Steelheaders will find their favorite holding pools gone. At Tugwell Creek the highways department feared another flood would undermine the bridge over the Island Highway.

Gravel was removed from the Sooke River and Demaniel Creek to build up the park where All Sooke Day is held. Special attention was given to the release of salmon fry.

“There are in Britain too many hereditary or tribal customs that have too great an influence on the running of the country,” he said.

He also criticized Canada's system of non-titled senators

“DO YOU KNOW HOW ENJOYABLE CANADIAN PACIFIC MAKES TRAIN TRAVEL NOW?”

Mr. & Mrs. D. H. Maden, 4550 Carson Avenue, Burnaby, B.C.

“We had almost forgotten how good it is to get away from that ‘fenced-in’ feeling when we take a trip of any distance.”

This time Zella, the kids and I went together from Vancouver to Winnipeg and return, and believe me, we're sold on Canadian Pacific's Family Plan fares and we're glad to be back on the rails with the Company that has the only Scenic Dome in Canada.

We like the space in a train—plenty of room to move around when you feel like stretching your legs. Comfort's another big item too. You just automatically unwind, we found, whether you are enjoying the club-like atmosphere of the Observation Lounge, Dining Room or Skyline Coffee Shop car. (Reclining coach seats with adjustable head and leg rests offer you complete relaxation, too.)

We both agreed on the convenience of the train. We left from downtown and arrived downtown. There were no nerve-wracking highway hazards or long trips from and to the centre of the city. You ride and sleep in comfort and eat with enjoyment while you look out the large windows and see a new view every mile of the way. The kids, bless 'em, were no problem at all. They found plenty to keep them out of mischief.

Lightseeing and picture taking were terrific. Nothing beats the wonderful view from the Scenic Dome—and they are something only Canadian Pacific has to offer in Canada—and at no extra cost. The train's a sociable place too. Both Zella and I found congenial company to chat with. Time on the train passes so pleasantly. And most important to me is the money I saved with Canadian Pacific's Special Family Plan fares—all that comfort and enjoyment for less than I'd have spent on almost any other kind of travel. Yes Sir, from now on we're staying “right on the rails”.

Nepal's Everest Claim Admitted by Red China

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Communist China has accepted Nepal's claim to the exclusive ownership of the peak of Mount Everest, Nepalese newspapers report.

The reports said the Chinese accepted a Nepalese map showing the 29,002-foot peak to be within Nepal. The map's acceptance implied Chinese recognition that Everest was part of Nepal.

Sino-Nepalese boundary treaty signed by King Mahendra of Nepal and President Liu Shao-chi of China last Thursday made no mention of Everest, the world's highest mountain. Ownership of Mount Everest was regarded as the key issue of the boundary treaty.

Ideals Count Before Image Says Murrow

WASHINGTON (CP)—"Americans like to be seen," says Edward R. Murrow, "but they are a people who care more about their ideals than their image."

Murrow, who is visiting Canada, said he was struck by the contrast between the American public's concern for their image and the American government's concern for its ideals.

"I am not sure that I think the importance of being liked is exaggerated," he said. "It is more important that we be understood."

Woman Pinned in Car Five Days --- Survives

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — A 26-year-old woman was recovering in hospital after spending five days pinned in her overturned car.

Mrs. Marie Fowler was found in lonely country Sunday only because a plucking couple climbed down into a mountain gully in search of a waterfall.

Mrs. Fowler, too weak to say much about her ordeal, reported that she got water by dipping her arm free hand into a stream running past the car.

Americans Banned From Calgary Vote

CALGARY (CP) — The American consulate in Calgary has received an order from the U.S. state department forbidding U.S. citizens from voting in the Oct. 18 plebiscite on fluoridation of the city's water supplies.

LETTER RECEIVED

A letter to consul Edwin Madill from the office of State Secretary Dean Rusk said fluoridation had become a political issue and therefore Americans living here could not vote.

It is estimated that between 32,000 and 36,000 U.S. citizens live in the city.

The plebiscite is being held with civic elections for mayor, alderman and school boards.

COUNTING ON VOTE

Medical officers of health Dr. L. C. Allan, anxious for approval of fluoridation, said he was counting on a heavy favorable vote by Americans many of whom come from fluoridated areas themselves.

U.S. citizens are not allowed to vote for candidates for public office, but may vote on school expenditures, property improvements and other similar questions not raised at the same time as civic elections.

Students Sing on Picket

OTTAWA (CP) — Footnote: university students protesting against nuclear arms ended a 73-hour picketing of Parliament Hill Monday with 73 seconds of silence beneath the Peace Tower.

About 180 pickets remained at the 11 a.m. finish of the demonstration that began at 10 a.m. Friday, organized by the combined universities campaign for nuclear disarmament.

Campaign chairman Demetri Rousseopoulos of Montreal told the students their non-stop parade had been a success and urged them to spread the movement at their own universities and in other countries.

He told reporters there were some 320 marchers in the largest single picket, on Saturday evening, and estimated that about 800 people at various times took part in the demonstration.

PICKETING ORDERLY

The picketing was orderly and without any serious incidents. At times the marchers, accompanied by two guitars, a fife and bongo drums, sang songs as they circled the Parliament Hill lawn. A favorite was: Glory, Glory, What a Helluva Way to Die, sung to the tune of John Brown's Body.

Britain Rejected Airplane in 1842

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Geographic Society came up yesterday with the startling information that the British parliament delayed the invention of the airplane for 60 years.

The society said a British inventor named William Samuel Henson applied for a patent on an "entirely rational" aircraft in 1842 — six decades before Orville and Wilbur Wright flew 856 feet at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

FUNDS REFUSED

Henson received his patent and petitioned parliament for funds to construct the plane. But the British government, according to the society, did not or could not supply the money despite "great public interest."

Henson's patent application described an "aerial steam carriage" to convey letters, goods and passengers from place to place through the air. His aircraft was a monoplane called the "Ariel," weighed 3,000 pounds and was powered by a steam engine capable of delivering 30 horsepower.

PATENT GRANTED

The geographic society said the engine was hitched to two pusher propellers which resembled paddle wheels. The wing was much like that on the Wright brothers plane, ribbed and covered with a strong fabric. "I prefer oiled silk for this purpose," Henson wrote in his patent application.

Henson's conception was entirely rational and markedly in advance of scientific thought for the year 1842," the society commented. "He lacked for success only a sufficiently light engine and a knowledge of the superiority of a curved wing section."

Queen Victoria herself granted Henson the patent for his "locomotive apparatus for air" the following year. Britain was in the throes of a severe depression and Henson never went beyond drawing of his aircraft.

Feeling Low Down? Don't Blame Fallout

TORONTO (CP) — Radioac-

Views Could Impose 'Typhoid Mabel' Label

Council Names Date For Vote on Sewers

ALBERNI—Controversial Mayor Mabel Anderson was told at a council meeting Tuesday that if she wanted to go down in the city's annals as "Typhoid Mabel" she should continue her opposition to a $600,000 sewer project.

Ald. Thomas Barnett hurled the warning after Mayor Anderson had said council should have considered other alternatives to the $600,000 project before voting to put the sewer bylaw to the people.

"STRANGE TIME" Referring to the alternatives mentioned by the mayor, Ald. Barnett said, "this seems like a strange time to bring them forward."

He said that during the previous two years the mayor had many opportunities to bring in sewer plans.

"It has become abundantly clear," he told council, "that the mayor was doing everything possible to prevent progress being made. She has made it clear by her actions that she does not want a sewer system."

FINES BACK Mayor Anderson fired charges that council is trying to saddle Alberni ratepayers with a $1,000,000 debt, that the public has been prevented from obtaining all the facts on the sewer project, that the aldermen held secret meetings, that they weren't gentlemen and that Ald. Barnett was "playing politics."

Council voted to reaffirm its resolution approving the sewer bylaw and ordered filed a letter from Alberni Ratepayers and Citizens' Society, a group partial to Mayor Anderson's administration.

The letter criticized the fact that preliminary work on the bylaw was done by a select committee of aldermen.

Replying verbally to the group, Ald. Thomas Hamilton said the work had been handled by a select committee only because Mayor Anderson had failed to show leadership on the project and call committee hearings to deal with it.

The bylaw will go to the people Oct. 26.

More Than Last Year

229 Traffic Deaths On B.C. Highways

Total of 229 people have met violent deaths on B.C. highways so far this year, motor vehicle superintendent George Lindsay reported yesterday.

This figure represents an increase of 15 deaths over the same period a year ago.

Even so, motor vehicle branch officials expressed satisfaction that the number of deaths had decreased sharply in the last few months.

In July this year's total was running 40 more than at the same time in 1960.

August deaths showed a decrease of 20 over last year's figures for the month and September's total of 23 highway fatalities was five less than in September a year ago.

Traffic accidents have cost $9,918,000 since Jan. 1.

There have been 18,752 accidents this year, an increase of 836 and 8,454 injuries, up 629.

Boy Hits Woman With Bike

An elderly woman who was hit by a bicycle while walking on the sidewalk on Shelbourne near Haultain was in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night.

Mrs. Janet Ialip, 66, a patient at Mount St. Mary Hospital, suffered back injuries and bruises.

Police said the bicycle was ridden by nine-year-old Nicholas Sohye, 2525 Scott Street.

The youngster was taken to his home by police and admonished in front of his parents.

Son Blamed

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Police said Wednesday a 43-year-old man killed his invalid mother and then himself in a double shooting in their home here.

The bodies of Mrs. Georgina Blanchette, 77, and her son, Peter, were found Tuesday.

'Wouldn't Work'

BCHIS Alcoholic Care Turned Down by Chant

A resolution by the Vancouver Island Alcoholism Foundation, suggesting alcoholics be given treatment under the B.C. Hospital Insurance Scheme, met with a less than enthusiastic response from a member of the provincial government yesterday.

"An interesting idea," said Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, "but it just wouldn't work."

BECAUSE OF COST

"We have to limit our ventures somewhere because of cost and I don't think the problem of alcoholism rightly fits into the concept of public care."

He agreed the suggestion "might have some merit," but hastened to add any such move would be open to abuses.

He cited the possibility that some alcoholics would use government-sponsored cures merely as a way of "getting dried out."

Alcoholism, he pointed out, has a straightforward cure—abstinence—and can probably be best handled by various community organizations.

KNOW MODERATION

In its resolution, the Alcoholism Foundation referred to the "known moderation of the provincial government in matters of spirituous liquors . . . they would see the wisdom of channelling a small percentage of the huge profits made by the government liquor outlets toward care and rehabilitation of alcoholics."

VIP Comedy To Launch City Canvas

A new British comedy—"A Very Important Person," will be the entertainment highlight of a rally in the Odeon Theatre next Sunday evening to officially launch the United Appeal's residential canvass.

Some 1,500 canvassers and team captains will turn out for the premiere at 8.30 p.m. Victoria's Mayor Percy Scurrell and reeves of surrounding municipalities will be among the guests.

Victoria Theatre Guild will present a skit on "How Not to Sell the United Appeal" and campaign chairman Justin Harbord will speak just before the movie is shown.

The Statute of Westminster, which established the legislative equality of the Parliament of Canada with that of Britain, was passed in 1931.

Auditorium Views Sought

Victoria's civic auditorium committee has reserved its efforts to decide on what the area needs in an auditorium. The committee will hold a brainstorming session Oct. 20 to pool ideas and hopes to come up with a concrete recommendation for city council.

Three Officers Promoted

Promotions were announced yesterday for three officers in the militia, whose new ranks and posts are: Maj. T. G. Dalzell, administrative staff officer 25 Militia Group; Maj. R. L. Caldwell, paymaster 25 Militia Group; Capt. D. R. Cook, "A" Troop commander, 5th Independent Medium Battery. (Colonist photos.)

University 'Short-Sighted' To Reject Lab on Campus

Reeve George Chatterton last night criticized the "short-sighted" policies of Victoria University in turning down a suggestion to locate the proposed federal forestry research laboratory on the Gordon Head Campus.

He agreed with Coun. Gregory Cook who said an "opposite trend" was apparent in the U.S.

Reeve Chatterton said he felt all research facilities in the area should be concentrated as far as possible in one place. He said local university officials were in favor of locating the forest laboratory on the campus until UBC president Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie rejected the proposal.

Council discussed the recommendation of Saanich advisory planning commission that letter should be obtained first from the university stating it was not interested in having the research facilities on the campus.

No Ship Program For Winter Work

Hopes that a Royal Canadian Navy shipbuilding program could be advanced to provide winter work for Victoria shipyards were dashed yesterday.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said a letter from Defence Minister Douglas Harkness made it plain it would be impossible to advance the program at all.

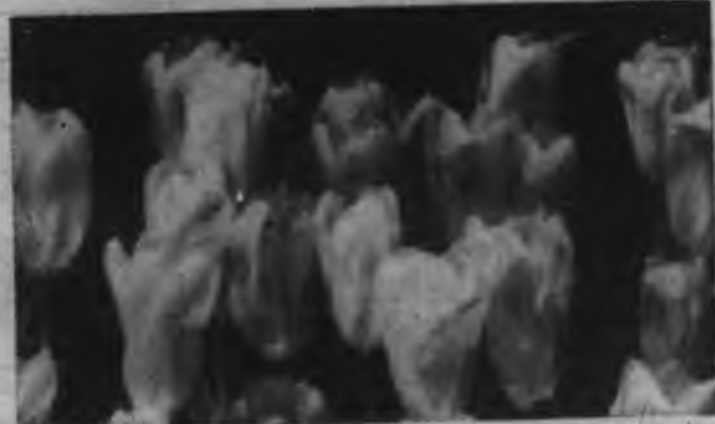

"Mr. Harkness told me the plans and specifications have not been drawn yet and the contracts have to be let," the Mayor said.

"There is going to be plenty of work next summer, but what we need is the assurance of more work in January, February and March."

Below Danger Level

OTTAWA (CP) — Fallout from Russian nuclear bomb tests remained high in Canada in the last two weeks of September but readings continued to follow a pattern of sharp rises followed by equally sharp drops.

The health department reported Wednesday that the average radiation level recorded by its 24 air sampling stations for the last week of September was almost unchanged from the level two weeks previous. However, readings during the second-last week of the month were the highest since the air sampling program began.

AVERAGE LEVEL

For the week Sept. 25-Oct. 1 the average radiation level in air samples was 35.6 disintegration per minute per cubic metre of air. This compared with an average of 35.3 for the week Sept. 11-17 and 115.75 for Sept. 18-24.

RATE OF DECAY

Fallout levels in air samples are determined by the rate of decay of the radioactive products created by nuclear explosions and are given in disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air.

Present increases in fallout levels are caused mainly by short-lived fission products. These disintegrate over a short period and fallout levels drop almost as quickly as they build up.

Health department officials said that high levels of short-lived fission products over a short period of time do not constitute a danger to health.

Legal Issues Delay Trial In Brandon

BRANDON (CP) — The Paton-Cox trial here bogged down Wednesday into a series of discussions concerning evidence.

The jury was excluded four times during the day's sitting for periods ranging up to 50 minutes as counsel and Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin thrashed out legal points.

It was the 12th day of the trial of Toronto businessmen Hugh Paton and Hubert Cox. J. C. (Cam) Donaldson, former owner of Brandon Packers Ltd., is expected to be called as a Crown witness today.

Divers Grapple

Octopus Proved Utterly Harmless

By CAL SMITH
Colonist Diving Columnist

The octopus grapple held at Saxe Point last weekend was the first competition of its kind ever held in Canada and proved successful in a number of ways. Its main achievement, I think, was proving the octopus to be completely harmless.

The contestants, using nothing but the air they could hold in their lungs, were required to dive to the bottom of the bay through 30 feet of water to tackle the creatures in their own element.

HARDHAT DIVER

If, under conditions like these, the octopus is the decided underdog, it doesn't seem reasonable that they would be dangerous to a scuba or hardhat diver.

The rocky shores of Saxe Point make ideal nesting grounds for the eight-armed animals and the diver's great est problem is in enticing the "monsters" from their den. Once out, however, there is absolutely no problem in bringing the harmless creatures to the surface and shore.

More than 50 Island skin-divers registered for the events, proving almost conclusively the disdain of local divers for the ferocious reputation of the devilfish. And many contestants even went as far as foregoing the comfort of the diver's safety knife.

MOST FEROCIOUS

As a further indication of the unconcern of experienced divers for this "most ferocious of all sea animals," a ruling was passed that divers would be awarded the diver responsible for hurting his captive in any way.

In addition to enforcing the "no weapons" rule, the regulation also ensured the octopus would live when returned to the water following the contest. Of the 29 captured, only one of the animals eventually died.

ADDED SLAUGHTER

Sponsored by a Victoria skindiving club, the Bohemians, the event was as singularly progressive as the divers who sponsored it.

If more contests of this nature were held, it would do more for skindiving than any number of spearfishing competitions, with their accompanying slaughter of fish, could hope to accomplish.

Full Sick Bay Sends Warship Home

A lightning attack of gastro-enteritis, a fast-spreading respiratory disease, struck down 35 of some 200 seamen on board the destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa yesterday.

The outbreak forced Ottawa to withdraw from joint Canadian-U.S. manoeuvres and limp home to Esquimalt with her sick bay full.

Medical officers dashed to the ship the moment it reached port and seven of the sick sailors were rushed to hospital ashore.

They declined to say how serious their condition was.

Seamen were permitted to call wives and families ashore to tell them the ship had been quarantined and personnel were being held on board until this morning.

But a naval information officer said the ship was "not exactly in quarantine."

"We're just holding the crew on board—that's all," he said.

Attempts to reach the Ottawa were discouraged by HMCS Naden telephone operators who said they had received instructions to stop any incoming calls except those of an extremely urgent nature.

A medical officer contacted by telephone in the Ottawa's sick bay said absolutely no information would be released from the ship without prior sanction by navy public relations.

Even relatives of the quarantined seamen were vague on details. Calls from ship to shore offered no explanation of the delay in releasing the men.

Local health authorities were not called in. Greater

Victoria medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said he had heard nothing.

Among Esquimalt-based ships participating in the exercise are the destroyer escorts Assiniboine, Skeena, Fraser and Margaret; frigates Suffernville, Ste. Therese, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, Stettler, Antigonish and Jonquiere; the fleet maintenance vessel Cape Breton and the submarine Grille.

Cape Breton is expected to tie up at Dockyard this morning.

Tombstones Scattered By Vandals

KELOWNA (CP)—Twenty tombstones, all from the graves of Japanese, have been ripped up and scattered over a part of the cemetery here. The desecration was discovered Wednesday by Jean Wouda, cemetery caretaker, who said her cases and a tube of lipstick lay on the ground nearby.

EXPEL SOUTH AFRICA UN DEMAND TODAY

Kennedy Considers U.S. Action in Asia

GEN. MAXWELL TAYLOR ... for Viet Nam
GEN. JAMES VAN FLEET ... anti-Red tactics

'Warning Force' Studied To Block Red Drives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday held an unannounced secrecy-shrouded conference with his top military and diplomatic aides on the increasing Communist threat to Southeast Asia.

He announced he is sending Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Viet Nam to discuss way of protecting it from Communist aggression and is calling former Korean War commander Gen. James Van Fleet out of retirement to advise the Pentagon on anti-Communist guerrilla tactics in Asia.

The United States and its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization have been studying the possibility of sending a "warning force" to block Red drives in the area. The state department said no decision had been reached.

Meeting with the president to discuss the situation in Laos and Red guerrilla attacks on South Viet Nam were Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The White House meeting came as Tokyo dispatches quoted Communist China's army chief of staff, Gen. Lo Jui-ching, as saying that sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam or Laos would "seriously endanger peace" in Asia.

REPORTS DENIED

For the past few days the state department has denied reports that the administration was considering sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam.

Department press chief Lincoln White said yesterday that this was not under consideration now "in any active sense."

But White added, "We always have to look for contingencies that might arise."

ADVANTAGE TAKEN

The North Vietnamese Communists have taken advantage of the unexpected ceasefire in Laos—and perhaps the West's struggle with the Berlin crisis—to build up forces in southern Laos. These forces are striking into South Viet Nam and threaten Thailand to the west.

CONTINGENCY PLAN

The United States and its allies have long had a contingency plan to base a relatively small force in northern Thailand as a sign of their determination to fight if necessary in the area.

Another Russian Defects

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—A 35-year-old Russian citizen last night defected from the Soviet tourist liner Kallinin, Stockholm police reported.

The unidentified man asked for political asylum in Sweden. The defector, a passenger aboard the liner, walked off the ship and managed to find the police station here.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The wrath of Afro-Asian countries fell on South Africa Wednesday after Foreign Minister Eric Louw defended the racial policies of his country and criticized its critics.

... 'crudity'

In an unprecedented action, the 16th United Nations General Assembly voted 67 to one with 20 abstentions in support of a Liberia-proposed motion of censure terming Louw's speech "offensive and erroneous."

Ambassador Noyel Louw of Senegal announced at the height of the emotion-charged debate that his country would move today for expulsion of South Africa from the UN.

This came amid other predictions that the censure motion would be a prelude to an expulsion attempt and there also was some speculation that South Africa—which left the Commonwealth earlier this year—might itself withdraw from the UN.

LOVE OBJECTION

South Africa alone voted against the censure motion. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, some Latin American countries, Italy and Portugal were among the abstainers.

Britain, the United States and France were among nine countries announcing that, although present, they would not participate in the vote.

Three countries were absent from the 100-nation body.

'FORWARDED'

He charged that Wednesday's move was the result of a pre-arranged campaign by African nations "about which we had been forewarned" by the tone of earlier speeches.

In his main address, Louw defended South Africa's racial separation policies of apartheid and charged some African countries with attacking his government to turn attention away from conditions of poverty and illiteracy within their borders.

DEMAND WITHDRAWN

Liberian Ambassador Henry Ford Cooper proposed the censure motion after withdrawing a demand that Louw's entire speech be expunged from the Assembly's records—which would also have been an unprecedented action.

Regarding the first motion, Louw said it would be applying a double standard. He invoked a speech by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last year in which the Canadian had warned against using a double standard in connection with Communist and old-style imperialism.

UN Urges Dag Probe

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations steering committee agreed unanimously Wednesday to place on the General Assembly agenda a request from seven nations for an international investigation into the plane crash that killed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

No Easy Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy told a news conference yesterday his talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "did not give us any immediate hopes" that the East-West dispute over Berlin would be "easily settled."

He said that talks will continue with Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson consulting with the Soviets in Moscow and with the United States consulting with its Allies to get a common position.

Kennedy said the U.S. goal was to "have a solution that would end the threat of war" and improve the security of the people of West Berlin.

There is no conclusion yet, he said, as to what the ultimate outcome will be.

The president said "we happen to live in the most dangerous time in the history of the human race."

He emphasized that the Red Chinese so far had shown no evidence that they "wish to live in comity with us."

Asked for his views of public opinion polls showing Americans more worried about a possible war than at any time in recent years, he said Americans were "naturally and quite correctly concerned."

Stressing the need for fall-out protection, Kennedy said the U.S. is in for "a long period of constant tension" during which nuclear weapons will be "proliferating."

'Steel Yourselves to Shoot Your Fellow-Countrymen'

West German President
Talks Tough to Troops

BERLIN (AP)—West German President Heinrich Lübke warned West Germans Wednesday to steel themselves to shoot at East Germans if necessary in defence of their freedom.

Lübke made his speech to officers at an advanced leadership academy for the armed forces at Hamburg.

The speech came a few hours after East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht suggested a non-aggression pact between the Communist bloc and the West—to be signed after the Berlin crisis has been settled on Communist terms.

Lübke's speech drew a furious response from the East German Communists. The official ADN news agency said he "employed slogans like those used by German imperialists, including Hitler, to camouflage their war preparations."

Army Rightists Crushed In Latin Revolt

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—President Lleras Camargo last night decreed a state of siege, martial law, only a few hours after the government crushed an attempted right-wing revolt by army troops. One revolt leader was killed.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast the state of siege stems from a growing wave of disorders throughout the nation including "attempts at open rebellion."

DANGER CONTINUES

Lleras Camargo said that although all recent attempts to overthrow the government had been thwarted the "danger of continued attempts exists."

He added government officials and army leaders believe the new revolt attempt as well as continuing guerrilla activities near the Venezuelan border are all part of a plan.

DARK INTERNATIONAL

Lleras Camargo said international Communism and "retired dictators" were "inspiring" the attempts and accused leftists and rightists of joining together in a "dark international."

He said their aim was to block forthcoming elections.

Napoleon Murdered Historian Declares

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A Swedish historian-dentist claimed Wednesday he has unearthed evidence that Napoleon was murdered.

Dr. Sten Forshufvud told a press conference that research into available documents plus chemical evidence indicated Napoleon was slowly poisoned over a long period by doses of arsenic and bitter almonds.

The historian-dentist names as the most likely murderer of Napoleon, Marshal Montholon, executor of the will of the French emperor.

Forshufvud said he obtained some of Napoleon's hair and sent it for analysis—without revealing its origin—to Glasgow University in Scotland.

University scientists replied there was an unusually large quantity of arsenic in the hairs, Forshufvud said.

More research led him to pin the crime on Montholon.

Most historians held Napoleon died of stomach cancer.

Britain to Slow Down Flow of Immigrants

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Home Secretary Richard A. Butler yesterday promised the Conservative party conference that the government would slow the flow of Commonwealth immigrants into Britain.

Butler said the measures the government had in mind would be discussed with Commonwealth countries and added: "I have no intention of introducing legislation based on

'Citizens' Vote Full Support To Precinct Plan

A "citizens' meeting" of businessmen, architects and property owners last night voted unanimously in favor of a detailed plan of zoning amendments aimed at turning the Cathedral Hill civic precinct proposal into reality.

Saanich Saves $23,000

Saanich has lopped nearly $23,000 from the original $47,744 low tender price for the new municipal police and fire headquarters by eliminating such items as cell bars of "hacksaw-resistant stainless steel."

Coun. Joseph Casey told council last night: "If they must have shiny bars we'll have ordinary steel chromed."

SPECIFIED UNITS

He said further economies were obtained by replacing specified cell units from Eastern Canada with cheaper locally-made units.

With an estimated $50,000 in winter works grants, the cuts so far brought the total cost to local taxpayers to about $200,000, a figure council found satisfactory.

ALL TOO HIGH

The special building committee last week ruled all bids "too high" and asked the architect to discuss cuts with the low-bidding firm.

Reeve George Chatterton said the contract will probably be signed next week and an immediate start made on construction.

Sign Law Comes Up Next Week

Amendments to Victoria's sign bylaw, to bring it into line with what city council has been doing, will be considered next week.

The proposed amendments, which set out definitely what signs will be allowed in the area around the Empress Hotel, will be discussed by public works committee Tuesday.

When the bylaw was adopted about a year ago, council left itself authority to decide what signs, if any, would be permitted.

Since then it has allowed three large free-standing signs and one fascia sign.

Help Golf Course Victoria Asked

Saanich decided last night to invite Victoria to participate in joint development of a public golf course at Elk-Beaver Lake.

Coun. Leslie Pasmore suggested city council be given the opportunity of participating in the venture before Saanich seeks a long-term lease on the lake property to develop its own golf course.

The proposal will be made at a meeting Monday at City Hall.

The property is owned by the city and jointly operated as a park by Victoria and Saanich.

Reeve George Chatterton said if the city isn't interested in a joint operation—"I'm inclined to think it would be too complicated"—Saanich must seek a 60-year lease.

Steps could be taken then to determine accurate cost and a bylaw could be put to authorize borrowing the funds.

London Dynasty Vanishing

Pearly Royalty Charms City

Two London pearls demonstrated here last night there is more than the accent and a couple of dropped "aitches" when it comes to mangling English.

The demonstration was so thorough it sent a little old lady of 80 home crying tears of nostalgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tinsley, the King and Queen of London's Pearlies, here to help Canadian Pacific Airlines celebrate the forthcoming inauguration of the line's service linking western Canada with London, charmed Victoria in a one-day visit.

Resplendent in traditional pearl-button costumes, they lunched at the Hudson's Bay Co., signed autographs, chatted and lectured the Colonist staff on the vagaries of the rhyming slang of London's costermongers.

An elderly Victoria woman found their chatter so delightfully filled with reminiscences of a childhood in London that she wept when she had to leave them.

Mr. Tinsley, who inherited the title of Pearly King of Southwark from his father, and now reigns as Pearly King of all London, says the pearly dynasty will soon vanish from the London scene.

"The kids, y'know," he said, "wet wif rock 'n' roll, the telly and all the fun they gets dropped in their lap, 'fore you can say Bob's your uncle and Fanny's your aunt, they don't have to tike up the old game."

There was a time when London had a pearly population of more than 250, but changing times and habits have whittled them down to about 50, says Mr. Tinsley.

"Say something in Pearly," someone urged.

"Well now, like I was telling this ol' dear today, Had a bull and cow (row) wif me strugle and strife (wife). She tol me she was browned off, so I decided on a bowl of chalk (walk). So I went 'n' got me bow 'n' arner (barrow)."

"Lyter, I comes 'ome to see 'ow the old dutch was... I give her the spars and chips (tanners and shillings) (I'd made, took off me daisy roots (boots)—me plates of meat (feet) was achin' somethin' fierce. Hadda copper Rosy Lee (cup of tea), jumped into the uncle Ned (bed), put me 'ead on the weeping willow (pillow) and shut me mance ples (eyes)."

Mr. Tinsley explained Pearlies were created by costermongers as a means of raising funds for charities.

"Our main charity is the old folks. We raise enough to take about two busloads to the seashore every year. We give 'em a good tea, then on to the local for a bit of Knees Up Mother Brown" until the gun nor checks us out at 10.30."

PEARLIES PRIMP FOR VICTORIA

Streets to Sparkle With Christmas Trees

Downtown Victoria will be a "fairytale" in December with more than 100 lighted Christmas trees lining the streets, a Chamber of Commerce spokesman said last night.

Some 60 trees were used last year experimentally and they were so popular with merchants, who pay all costs, that the display has had to be increased.

"We are starting early this year," the spokesman said. "Last year many merchants were unable to take part because there was a limited time."

Illegal One Way, Uncouth the Other

Illegal but ladylike way for a girl in a skirt to cope with a motorcycle is demonstrated by Adele Kruger, behind Neil Laing. Legal—and infinitely safer—method falls short of finishing-school standards. In city police court yesterday, Work Point motorcyclist Alfred Napierala was fined $15 for allowing his companion to ride sidesaddle.—(Colonist photo.)

New Zoning

High-Rise Blocks Bring In Capital

Victoria's new zoning regulation for high-rise apartments is credited with causing a flow of investment capital into the city.

This comment came from W. P. Paterson, planning officer for the District of West Vancouver, in a letter to city planner Roderick Clack.

Mr. Paterson said West Vancouver's municipal assessor, J. Y. Gardner, reported the regulation has caused a boom in construction of apartment buildings.

A copy of the zoning bylaw, which West Vancouver is anxious to copy, has been sent to Mr. Paterson.

Two other high-rise apartments are planned, for $1,500,000 each.

Not Enough Time

Civil Defence Scraps Flight from Hospitals

Most Patients to Stay With Skeleton Staffs

Civil defence organizers have scrapped plans for the large-scale evacuation of city hospital patients in the event of a nuclear attack, it was learned yesterday.

Officials now believe there would be insufficient warning time to allow them to put their originally-planned total evacuation scheme into effect.

Under a new plan, drafted

by the provincial health department, all patients who can be moved will be discharged into the care of relatives and friends and left to their own devices in escaping from the target area.

The majority of doctors, nurses and other hospital staff will also leave as soon as the sirens sound, to disperse with their own families.

HOPE FOR BEST

Skeleton staffs will move all the remaining patients to shelter in hospital basements or on lower floors and hope for the best.

Steps will be taken to try to protect these people from radioactive fallout.

The new plan reverses a policy decision made just over a year ago which called for the complete evacuation of hospital staff and patients by car, bus and train.

TWO BIG CITIES

The new scheme applies to hospitals in both Victoria and Vancouver.

It has been officially estimated Victoria area hospitals and nursing homes have a total patient capacity of 2,279 and staff of 1,933.

Originally the patients and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital were to have been evacuated to Nanaimo High School and Royal Jubilee Hospital to Duncan Senior High School.

NANAIMO HOSPITAL
Veteran's Hospital site was the Indian Hospital at Nanaimo, Royal Canadian Navy Hospital to Port Alberni Junior-Senior High School and nursing home patients to Ladysmith and Chemainus High Schools.

Medical staff members who do manage to escape from the target area are to make their way to these destinations so they can help in setting up improvised hospitals or staffing advanced treatment centres.

Saanich Youth Sent to Oakalla For Attempt to Murder Girl

Sentence of 15 months definite and 18 indefinite in the young offenders' unit of Oakalla was imposed in Assize Court yesterday on Peter Tschirsch, 16, of Saanich, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of attempted murder.

Charge followed an incident last winter in which a neighboring girl suffered a stab wound and was struck over the head with a piece of wood.

An Assize Court jury early this month ruled the boy fit to stand trial and he pleaded guilty and was remanded to custody for sentence.

Sleepy-Time Guy Amazes Magistrate

WITHER AND YAWN: Character appearing in city police court this week gave out with a wide yawn while being spoken to by Magistrate William Ostler.

"I hope we're not keeping you up unnecessarily?" commented Mr. Ostler.

"Oh, no, your worship," replied the accused.

A few minutes later and then remarked: "You're about the sleepiest man I think I've ever seen!"

Magistrate Ostler looked at him for a full minute in silence, shook his head and then remarked: "You're about the sleepiest man I think I've ever seen!"

LA RONDE: City resident wanted to send a parcel to a patient at the Tranquille mental institution so phoned up the general office of the provincial health department for the right address.

Whoever answered referred her to the office of Health Minister Eric Martin. The call was in turn referred to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black's office which in turn referred the call to the hospital administration branch which in turn referred the call to the general office of the health department.

ment—the place where the first call was made. Believe it or not, they then gave out the address.

IN TUNE: Fellow we know put up a new television aerial the other day and carefully lined it up in the same direction as his neighbors' antennas were pointing.

His reception was terrible.

In a blind rage he went back up to the roof, gave the aerial a half turn to the south and went back to see if things had improved. They had. Every channel was coming in fine.

This intelligence seeped out into the neighborhood. Within a few days all the other aerials were pointing in the same direction as the new one.

REDUCED TO CLEAR: That police department which was not too helpful to the young gal who was bothered by indecent phone calls was

Oak Bay's. Police in other municipalities say they take a different view and are only too happy to try to catch the guilty parties ... Premier Bennett is getting so many visitors these days that he's commandeered an office next door to his for a special reception room ... OCF Leader Robert Strachan says he's more sure than ever that the government's action in taking over the B.C. Electric will lead to its defeat at the next election. He bases his opinion on public reaction he saw on a recent trip around the province.

SIGN IN FANNING: Quite a few posters urging Equinault-Saanich residents to vote for Socrates George Hahn are still marred by the countryside around here. The byelection was months ago. Maybe the Socrates are going to leave them there for the next federal election.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Our J. T. Jones observed that the bigger the city the bigger the foreign population.

"Just look at Tokyo," he said. "Nearly 100 per cent Japanese."

Council Names Date For Vote on Sewers

ALBERNI—Controversial Mayor Mabel Anderson was told at a council meeting Tuesday that if she wanted to go down in the city's annals as "Typhoid Mabel" she should continue her opposition to a $600,000 sewer project.

Ald. Thomas Barnett hurled the warning after Mayor Anderson had said council should have considered other alternatives to the $600,000 project before voting to put the sewer bylaw to the people.

"STRANGE TIME" Referring to the alternatives mentioned by the mayor, Ald. Barnett said, "this seems like a strange time to bring them forward."

He said that during the previous two years the mayor had many opportunities to bring in sewer plans.

"It has become abundantly clear," he told council, "that the mayor was doing everything possible to prevent progress being made. She has made it clear by her actions that she does not want a sewer system."

FIRES BACK Mayor Anderson fired charges that council is trying to saddle Alberni ratepayers with a $1,000,000 debt, that the public has been prevented from obtaining all the facts on the sewer project, that aldermen held secret meetings, that they weren't gentlemen and that Ald. Barnett was "playing politics."

Council voted to reaffirm its resolution approving the sewer bylaw and ordered filed a letter from Alberni Ratepayers and Citizens' Society, a group partial to Mayor Anderson's administration. The letter criticized the fact that preliminary work on the bylaw was done by a select committee of aldermen.

Replying verbally to the group, Ald. Thomas Hamilton said the work had been handled by a select committee only because Mayor Anderson had failed to show leadership on the project and call committee hearings to deal with it.

The bylaw will go to the people Oct. 26.

U.S. Firm Relents Grants Ski Lease

COURTENAY — Development of Courtenay Recreational Association's long sought ski area can now be planned following S. H. Paper Company's permission to give the sports group a 10-year lease on 250 acres of land.

Recently the U.S. company withdrew permission for clearing and development on its property near Forbidden Plateau Lodge, and the CRA's development plans were shelved.

Impaired Motorist Suspended

PORT ALBERNI—A Franklin River logger charged with impaired driving had his licence suspended for six months by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod in Port Alberni court.

Terry Scott Thexton pleaded guilty to the charge which was laid after police found him in his car in a ditch off Rogers St. at approximately 1 a.m.

Police said further investigation showed that he had previously driven into a stop sign in the vicinity of the Barclay Hotel.

He was fined $125.

Cowichan Timber On Block

NORTH COWICHAN—North Cowichan council has agreed to proceed with the sale of 740,000 feet of timber on Mount Bicker in the northern part of the municipality.

The sale will be conducted through tender.

BCHIS Alcoholic Care Turned Down by Chant

A resolution by the Vancouver Island Alcoholism Foundation, suggesting alcoholics be given treatment under the B.C. Hospital Insurance Scheme, met with a less than enthusiastic response from a member of the provincial government yesterday.

"An interesting idea," said Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, "but it just wouldn't work."

BECAUSE OF COST

"We have to limit our ventures somewhere because of cost and I don't think the problem of alcoholism rightly fits into the concept of public care."

He agreed the suggestion "might have some merit," but hastened to add any such move would be open to abuses.

VIP Comedy To Launch City Canvas

A new British comedy—"A Very Important Person," will be the entertainment highlight of a rally in the Odeon Theatre next Sunday evening to officially launch the United Appeal's residential canvas.

Some 1,500 canvassers and team captains will turn out for the premiere at 8:30 p.m. Victoria's Mayor Percy Scourrah and revues of surrounding municipalities will be among the guests.

Victoria Theatre Guild will present a skit on "How Not to Sell the United Appeal" and campaign chairman Justin Harbord will speak just before the movie is shown.

Port Alberni Building Increases $3,500,000

PORT ALBERNI — Building permit figures here for the first nine months of 1961 are $3,500,000 higher than for the same period last year.

Largest part of the increase is attributable to the start of an expansion project at the vast plant of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

September permits totalled $63,000.

Post Office Safe Says Alberni MP

ALBERNI — Alberni will not lose its present post office building if letter carrier service is instituted, according to a report from Harry C. McQuillan, Comox-Alberni M.P.

Mr. McQuillan some months ago offered to approach Postmaster-General William Hamilton with a request that the building be retained as a postal station. Aldermen approved Mr. McQuillan's suggestion. Mayor Mabel Anderson opposed the plan.

On Monday the MP said the postmaster-general had agreed to keep the building open with all wicket services available as at present. While the number of boxes will be reduced, usefulness or others wishing to receive their mail in this manner may do so.

Mr. McQuillan said letter carrier service in the old town will emanate from Port Alberni post office where there are sorting facilities. Rural routes will continue to be serviced from the Alberni office.

Mr. McQuillan pointed out that Alberni residents and postal patrons on the three rural routes may still use Alberni as their mailing address.

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Police said Wednesday a 43-year-old man killed his invalid mother and then himself in a double shooting in their home here. The bodies of Mrs. Georgina Blanchette, 77, and her son, Peter, were found Tuesday.

Winter Work For 31

PORT ALBERNI—Thirty-one men will be employed for six months under the winter works incentive program as Port Alberni gets its sewer waterworks project into full swing.

A report at Tuesday night's council meeting showed that estimated cost of the labor for the period is $70,000 with the city to bear one-third of the total.

The parks program will employ five men for six months under the incentive program on projects estimated to cost $12,000.

Sikhs' Temple Okayed

PORT ALBERNI — Traffic and parking problems were predicted by a spokesman for a group which attended Port Alberni council to protest the location of a Sikh temple being built on 12th Avenue North.

The speaker, representing 21 property-owners, said the structure would also tend to devalue property in the area.

FOR WORSHIP A representative of the Sikh group engaged in constructing the temple denied the suggestions. He said that the building would be used only for worship, church functions and Sunday school classes. Facilities were to accommodate religious ceremonies only. It was pointed out.

Council agreed that, as churches, schools and hospitals may be built in residential areas according to the zoning bylaw, no action should be taken by council. It was suggested that as various members of the temple group owned property adjacent to the building, an arrangement could be made for parking during the services held in the temple.

Full Sick Bay Sends Warship Home

A lightning attack of gastro-enteritis, a fast-spreading intestinal disease, struck down 35 of some 200 seamen on board the destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa yesterday. The outbreak forced Ottawa to withdraw from joint Canadian-U.S. manoeuvres and limp home to Esquimalt with her sick bay full.

Medical officers dashed to the ship the moment it reached port and seven of the sick sailors were rushed to hospital ashore.

They declined to say how serious their condition was.

Seamen were permitted to call wives and families ashore to tell them the ship had been quarantined and personnel were being held on board until this morning.

But a naval information officer said the ship was "not exactly in quarantine."

"We're just holding the crew on board—that's all," he said.

Attempts to reach the Ottawa were discouraged by HMCS Naden telephone operators who said they had received instructions to stop any incoming calls except "those of an extremely urgent nature."

A medical officer contacted by telephone in the Ottawa's sick bay said absolutely no information would be released from the ship without prior sanction by navy public relations.

Even relatives of the quarantined seamen were vague on details. Calls from ship to shore offered no explanation of the delay in releasing the men.

Local health authorities were not called in. Greater

Victoria medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said he had heard nothing.

Among Esquimalt-based ships participating in the exercise are the destroyer escorts Assiniboine, Skeena, Fraser and Margaree; frigates Sussexville, Ste. Therese, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, Stettler, Antigonish and Jonquiere; the fleet maintenance vessel Cape Breton and the submarine Grille.

Cape Breton is expected to tie up at Dockyard this morning.

OUST SOUTH AFRICA CALL TO UN TODAY

Kennedy Considers U.S. Action in Asia

GEN. MAXWELL TAYLOR GEN. JAMES VAN FLEET
... for Viet Nam ... anti-Red tactics

'Warning Force' Studied To Block Red Drives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday held an unannounced secrecy-shrouded conference with his top military and diplomatic aides on the increasing Communist threat to Southeast Asia.

He announced he is sending Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Viet Nam to discuss way of protecting it from Communist aggression and is calling former Korean War commander Gen. James Van Fleet out of retirement to advise the Pentagon on anti-Communist guerrilla tactics in Asia.

The United States and its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization have been studying the possibility of sending a "warning force" to block Red drives in the area. The state department said no decision had been reached.

Meeting with the president to discuss the situation in Laos and Red guerrilla attacks on South Viet Nam were Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The White House meeting came as Tokyo dispatches quoted Communist China's army chief of staff, Gen. Lo Jui-ching, as saying that sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam or Laos would "seriously endanger peace" in Asia.

For the past few days the state department has denied reports that the administration was considering sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam. Department press chief Lincoln White said yesterday that this was not under consideration now "in any active sense."

But White added: "We always have to look for contingencies that might arise."

ADVANTAGE TAKEN
The North Vietnamese Communists have taken advantage of the unopposed ceasefire in Laos — and perhaps the West's struggle with the Berlin crisis — to build up forces in southern Laos. These forces are striking into South Viet Nam and threaten Thailand to the west.

CONTINGENCY PLAN
The United States and its allies have long had a contingency plan to base a relatively small force in northern Thailand as a sign of their determination to fight if necessary in the area.

Another Russian Defects

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A 35-year-old Russian citizen last night defected from the Soviet tourist liner Kalinin, Stockholm police reported.

The unidentified man asked for political asylum in Sweden.

The defector, a passenger aboard the liner, walked off the ship and managed to find the police station here.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The wrath of Afro-Asian countries fell on South Africa Wednesday after Foreign Minister Eric Louw defended the racial policies of his country and criticized its critics.

In an unprecedented action, the 16th United Nations General Assembly voted 67 to one with 20 abstentions in support of a Liberia-proposed motion of censure terming Louw's speech "offensive and erroneous."

Ambassador Seyn Louw of Senegal announced at the height of the emotion-charged debate that his country would move today for expulsion of South Africa from the UN.

This came amid other predictions that the censure motion would be a prelude to an expulsion attempt and there also was some speculation that South Africa—which left the Commonwealth earlier this year—might itself withdraw from the UN.

LOU OBJECTION
South Africa alone voted against the censure motion. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, some Latin American countries, Italy and Portugal were among the abstainers.

Britain, the United States and France were among nine countries announcing that, although present, they would not participate in the vote. Three countries were absent from the 100-nation body.

Louw protested in debate that his policy speech had merely been an exposition of South Africa's views and was not intended to insult anyone.

'FOREWARNED'
He charged that Wednesday's move was the result of a pre-arranged campaign by African nations "about which we had been forewarned" by the tone of earlier speeches.

In his main address, Louw defended South Africa's racial separation policies of apartheid and charged some African countries with attacking his government to turn attention away from conditions of poverty and illiteracy within their borders.

Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku denounced Louw's speech as "one of the worst forms of crudity" ever displayed in the Assembly.

DEMAND WITHDRAWN
Liberian Ambassador Henry Ford Cooper proposed the censure motion after withdrawing a demand that Louw's entire speech be expunged from the Assembly's records — which would also have been an unprecedented action.

Regarding the first motion, Louw said it would be applying a double standard. He invoked a speech by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last year in which the Canadian had warned against using a double standard in connection with Communist and old-style imperialism.

Army Rightists Crushed In Latin Revolt

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — President Lleras Camargo last night decreed a state of siege, martial law, only a few hours after the government crushed an attempted right-wing revolt by army troops. One revolt leader was killed.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast the state of siege stems from a growing wave of disorders throughout the nation including "attempts at open rebellion."

DANGER CONTINUES
Lleras Camargo said that although all recent attempts to overthrow the government had been thwarted the "danger of continued attempts exists."

He added government officials and army leaders believe the new revolt attempt as well as continuing guerrilla activities near the Venezuelan border are all part of a plan.

DARK INTERNATIONAL
Lleras Camargo said international Communism and "retired dictators" were "inspiring" the attempts and accused leftists and rightists of joining together in a "dark international."

He said their aim was to block forthcoming elections.

Napoleon Murdered Historian Declares

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A Swedish historian-dentist claimed Wednesday he has unearthed evidence that Napoleon was murdered.

Dr. Sten Forshufvud told a press conference that research into available documents plus chemical evidence indicated Napoleon was slowly poisoned over a long period by doses of arsenic and bitter almonds.

The historian-dentist names as the most likely murderer of Napoleon, Marshal Montholon, executor of the will of the French emperor.

Forshufvud said he obtained some of Napoleon's hair and sent it for analysis—without revealing its origin—to Glasgow University in Scotland.

University scientists replied there was an unusually large quantity of arsenic in the hairs, Forshufvud said.

More research led him to pin the crime on Montholon.

Most historians held Napoleon died of stomach cancer.

No Easy Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy told a news conference yesterday his talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "did not give us any immediate hopes" that the East-West dispute over Berlin would be "easily settled."

He said that talks will continue with Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson consulting with the Soviets in Moscow and with the United States consulting with its Allies to get a common position.

Kennedy said the U.S. goal was to "have a solution that would end the threat of war and improve the security of the people of West Berlin. There is no conclusion yet, he said, as to what the ultimate outcome will be."

The president said "we happen to live in the most dangerous time in the history of the human race."

Asked for his views of public opinion polls showing Americans more worried about a possible war than at any time in recent years, he said Americans were "naturally and quite correctly concerned."

Stressing the need for fall-out protection, Kennedy said the U.S. is in for "a long period of constant tension" during which nuclear weapons will be "proliferating."

He emphasized that the Red Chinese so far had shown no evidence that they "wish to live in comity with us."

Talks Tough to Troops

BERLIN (AP)—West German President Heinrich Lübke warned West Germans Wednesday to steel themselves to shoot at East Germans if necessary in defence of their freedom.

Lübke made his speech to officers at an advanced leadership academy for the armed forces at Hamburg.

The speech came a few hours after East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht suggested a non-aggression pact between the Communist bloc and the West—to be signed after the Berlin crisis has been settled on Communist terms.

Lübke's speech drew a furious response from the East German Communists. The official ADN news agency said he "employed slogans like those used by German imperialists, including Hitler, to camouflage their war preparations."
